TRUMAN KNOCKS PENDING OPA MEASURE

Old Age Tax To Continue At 1 Per Cent

Social Security Deductions Frozen By House Ways, Means Committee

LARGE STATE GRANTS ARE ALSO RULED OUT

Changes In Bill Will Block Battle On Townsend Pension Plan

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Reversing a previous stand for a hike in the social security old age insurance tax, the House Ways and Means committee announced today a decision to "freeze" the tax for another year at one per cent on employers' payrolls and employees' pay. Moreover, the committee cut out of its social security revision bill a provision for larger grants to low-income states for the payment of benefits to needy aged, blind and dependent children.

The reversal occurred when the committee confronted a deadlock in the House Rules committee. Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.) said such a compromise was necessary to get any bill at all passed before congress adjourns for the summer.

Will Block House Battle

The new changes in the bill probably will block a house floor battle on the Townsend Old Age Pension plan, since under the compromise the leadership hopes to present the bill to the house with a rule barring amendments.

As newly drawn the security revision measure provides:

1. A freeze on the one per cent tax for old age and survivors insurance. The committee previously had voted to put this tax at 1.5 percent against employers and employees for a five-year period beginning January 1. Without congressional action this tax, by provision of the original security statute, would increase automatically next January to 2.5 per cent on employers and employees.

Increases To $25

2. Blanketing 200,000 maritime workers under the employment compensation features of the Social Security act. These workers have not been covered previously.

3. An increase from $20 a month to $25 in the amount the federal government will put up for matching state funds paid to needy aged, blind and dependent children. This makes it possible, under the 50-50 federal-state matching arrangement, for a needy person to receive $50 a month instead of the present $40 top.

Aleman Is Conceded Presidency Seat In Mexico Election

MEXICO CITY, July 14 (AP)—Ezequiel Padilla, Mexican Democratic party (PDM) presidential candidate in last Sunday's general elections, tonight conceded victory to Miguel Aleman, but charged that the Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI) candidate had been "imposed" upon the people in one of the nation's "most cynical frauds."

Padilla, former secretary of foreign affairs, said his party united with the independent forces of the nation to "declare, in view of this fraud which has so profoundly injured the dignity of the nation, that we will exhaust every legal recourse so that the imposition will not prevail and we will continue our fight for the conquest of the Democratic rights of the Mexican people."

Bikini Test Animals Reported 'Dying Like Flies' Aboard Ship

By CHARLES MCMURTRY
KWAJALEIN, Monday, July 15 (AP)—A report that Bikini test animals have begun "dying like flies" came today from the U.S.S. Bumblebee, highly-secret animal ship from which reports have been barred.

An officer who visited the Bumblebee said animals that appear healthy and have a normal count one day "drop off the next day."

Ministers Progressed Byrnes Says

President Truman Greeted Secretary of State In Washington

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—With a warm welcome home from President Truman, Secretary of State Byrnes today completed his latest peace-making mission to Europe and summed it up this way: "We made some progress."

"I am very happy to be at home," he told reporters upon landing at Washington airport, "and I know I speak for our delegation when I say we made some progress on the road back to peace."

As Byrnes stepped down from the president's own big four-engined plane followed by Senator Connally (D-Tex.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.) the chief executive waved and smiled a greeting from the foot of the landing steps. He gave the three news of final passage of the $3,750,000,000 British Loan Bill by congress but said the OPA bill is in "terrible shape."

Byrnes told the president he would make his first personal report at the White House tomorrow morning on the results of his negotiations with foreign Ministers Molotov, Bevin and Bidault. Tomorrow night Byrnes plans to make a radio talk via the Mutual Broadcasting system and the American Broadcasting Company from 9 to 9:30 p. m.

His "some progress" summary presumably indicated the line of his reports to both the president and the nation. Behind it was the fact that while the four ministers agreed on a peace conference at Paris July 29 to discuss treaties for Hitler's ex-territories, they had made no agreements on German or Austrian problems.

Violence Mounts In Heat Of Turkey Election Campaign

ISTANBUL, July 14 (AP)—Opposition newspapers have reported that violence and terrorism are mounting in the heat of Turkey's election campaign.

Some 10,000,000 persons are expected to vote next Sunday for the first time since the birth of the Turkish Republic 23 years ago, opposition parties will compete with the entrenched people's party for representation in the 460-seat national assembly.

One predicts that President Ismet Inonu's government will fall. From Ismir Bursa and the broad stretches of Anatolia came accounts of increasing violence. The opposition newspaper Vatan asserted that government police had beaten Anatolian peasants until they cried. "We can no longer stand our sufferings."

But the pro-government newspaper Tanin declared that the opposition was making "slandorous propaganda" and added:

"Three good-for-nothings are endeavoring to overthrow the government. They are not waging an electoral struggle, but are creating an atmosphere of anarchy."

The strongest opposition to Inonu's party comes from the lusty young Democratic party, headed by Jemal Bayar, one-time premier and friend of the late President Kemal Ataturk. His supporters predict that the Democrats may win more than 100 assembly seats. Most of Bayar's strength comes from commercial elements and the so-called middle class.

Cash Is Re-elected

WESTMINSTER, Md., July 14 (AP)—W. B. Cash, who withdrew as campaign manager for J. Millard Tawes during the Democratic primary campaign for governor and announced support of W. Preston Lane, Jr., was re-elected chairman of the Carroll County State Central Committee at its weekend organizational meeting.

L. B. Fink, a supporter of Tawes in the primary which saw Lane nominated for governor, was re-elected treasurer of the committee.

23 Are Injured In Train Wreck On Pennsy Line

Pullman Plows Into Coal Spilled From Derailed Cars; None Killed

LEWISTOWN, Pa., July 14 (AP)—Twenty-three persons were injured, none fatally, when two locomotives and five coaches of the 16-car Broadway Limited, New York-Chicago train of the Pennsylvania Railroad, were derailed five miles east of here last night.

The accident occurred at 9:02 o'clock (EST) when the all Pullman train plowed into coal that had spilled over the roadbed just a few seconds earlier from derailed coal cars of a freight train on another track.

Roll 30 Feet

The two locomotives rolled 30 feet down a steep bank to the edge of the Juniata river. The derailed coaches remained upright and only one passenger was injured. The other injured were crewmen and 18 dining car attendants. All were treated at hospitals in Harrisburg or Lewistown.

The passenger train was headed west and the freight, consisting of 124 loaded coal cars, was going east on the four-track roadbed when 31 of the coal cars were derailed. The coal from 13 of them spilled over the tracks.

Ralph Scheaffer, engineer of the first of two locomotives pulling the Broadway Limited, said the passenger train was traveling 60 to 65 miles an hour on a level stretch as it approached the freight, but had been slowed to about 20 miles an hour at the time of the derailment.

Puts Brakes On

"When the cab signal (indicating the track ahead was not clear) came down I put on the brakes," Scheaffer said from his hospital bed in Harrisburg. "Then the fireman (Alvin Henninger) yelled over 'that train is apart over there.' I slammed on the emergency brake about that time. Bang, we went into it and down over the hill we rolled."

"I was bounced around so much I didn't know what happened. I don't see how I got out of it alive."

H. L. Mancarrow, general manager of the railroad, said at the scene the freight derailment was caused by a broken coupling near the engine. He added that none of the injured was in a critical condition.

The accident ripped up all four tracks and the roadbed for 200 feet. The derailed Pullmans were hoisted back on the rails by cranes.

The damaged tracks were to be repaired during the day. Meanwhile, all trains were routed over the Bald Eagle branch with a delay of an hour and one-half. Trains thus were routed from Harrisburg to Lock Haven to Tyrone, Pa., where they rejoined the main tracks.

Russia Irks U. S. Holding Americans

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
BERLIN, July 14 (AP)—A high-ranking United States army official said tonight that if the Russians failed by tomorrow to release an American warrant officer and his wife, being held for apparent unauthorized entry into the Soviet occupation zone, "something is likely to happen, because we are getting mad about this."

The officer, who declined to be quoted by name, said the Russians had broken their promise to release Warrant Officer Samuel L. Harrison, San Antonio, Tex., and his wife, Helen, who disappeared into the Russian zone on July 1 when, without the required written travel orders, they were reported to have exceeded zonal limits to visit a pet shop.

Giving voice to a shortening of tempers among American army officials over what has become an unprecedented case, the official said: "The Russians gave us a definite commitment they would return the Harrisons yesterday or today. We sent some agents down to the Russian Kommandantur to fetch them, but they did not get them."

There still was no word tonight of the fate of two other American army officers—Capt. Harold Cobin, Newark, N. J., and Lt. George E. Wyatt, Oklahoma City—who were reported to have boarded a train for Oranienburg, north of Berlin.

ELOPERS START BACK HOME

Runaway Girl Who Didn't Marry Will Get Court Hearing Today

MALDEN, Mass., July 14 (AP)—Home again after an unsuccessful attempt at a runaway marriage, red-haired, 18-year-old Teresa Leary and her 23-year-old boyfriend said tonight that they had picked Elkton, Md., as their "eterna green" at the suggestion of a hitch-hiking sailor.

They told reporters at Malden police station that they had planned originally to drive to California to be married but that a sailor they picked up in Pennsylvania told them they would have to wait only 48 hours for their license in Elkton. The couple said the sailor told them that he himself was on his way to meet his girl friend for an Elkton marriage.

Police said that the pretty Regis college sophomore and Robert Nilsen, her Boston navy veteran boy friend, had $65 when they started out in the girl's father's automobile last Monday but only $2 when they were stopped by a Maryland policeman near Elkton last Thursday.

The youth said he had taken a job in an Elkton warehouse "to earn money to get married."

Police said the unsuccessful elopement will appear in district court tomorrow—the girl on a charge of being a stubborn child and Nilsen on a charge of using the father's automobile without authority.

The girl had been missing since last Monday, when, her parents said, she failed to return home from her job as a playground instructor.

The following night the girl's mother said she received a telegram from her daughter saying that she was on her way to Connecticut to be married to the youth she met six weeks ago.

They were brought back from Elkton tonight in the custody of the girl's father, who is employed as a Boston customs inspector, and two policemen.

More than $2,500,000 will be spent on maintenance of rivers and harbors projects lying wholly or partially in Maryland during the coming year.

Churchill Fears No 3 Holocaust

Calls For Europe To "Rise From Ruins" And Avoid Another War

METZ, FRANCE, July 14 (AP)—Winston Churchill called on Europe today to "rise from her ruins and spare the world a third and possibly fatal holocaust" and declared that a strong France was necessary to achieve this goal.

The former British prime minister, speaking at a Bastille day celebration marking the 157th anniversary of the French revolution, said that there could be "no revival of Europe of its culture without a strong France."

Political observers were quick to note the great appeal Churchill made to France, without directly referring to a western bloc or even a written alliance between France and Great Britain.

"Europe must take first place in our thoughts," he insisted. "May there be a decent life achieved and set up for Europeans." He then carefully pointed up his next remark: "Europe is my first word. My second watchword is 'France.'"

He referred to the necessity for British-French understanding and said:

"You must never allow the slightest recrimination between Great Britain and France."

Speaking at a dinner given in his honor by the Municipality of Metz, Churchill referred to Russia as "our heroic ally."

"Twice," he said, "have the United States spent blood in coming to Europe. Twice has great Britain and the commonwealth done the same, and twice has our heroic ally Russia. There must be no third time."

"Europe must rise from her ruins," he thundered the present leader of Great Britain's opposition party, "and spare the world a third and possibly fatal holocaust."

UN Atomic Group Begins Drafting Control Treaty

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER
NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—The Australian and Brazilian delegates to the 12-member United Nations Atomic Energy Commission mapped today the immediate work of the group as it began its task of drafting a proposed treaty for controlling the atom.

The Australian is Dr. Herbert V. Ewart, who guided the commission through phase one of its labors during which all views were explored.

The Brazilian is Capt. Alvaro Alberto da Motta Silva, who technically became chairman of the commission under the plan of rotating that post each month by the English alphabetical order of the commission membership.

Capt. Alberto indicated today that he and Dr. Ewart still were conferring on the future schedule of the three committees set up by the working committee of the commission at a lengthy closed meeting Friday. It was expected an announcement might be made tomorrow.

The first committee established Friday for the phase two, treaty-making operation, will recommend measures of control, sanctions, and observance of steps to insure the prevention of the use of atomic energy for destructive purposes.

The second committee will handle the controversial veto question in its field of legal points. It also will deal with the relationship between the atomic control agency and the U. N. Security council.

Scientific and technical experts will make up the third committee which will consider and recommend proposals for the exchange of scientific information and for developing atomic energy for peaceful uses.

Taken As Hint He Will Veto Present Bill

Asserts Present Draft "Couldn't Be In Worse Shape"

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—President Truman served notice on Congress today that he dislikes pending OPA legislation about as much, or possibly even more, than the price control bill he vetoed two weeks ago.

Mr. Truman asserted specifically that the measure, as passed by the Senate Saturday, "is in terrible shape" and "couldn't be any worse."

This was taken generally as a hint that he may veto the new bill, unless basic changes are made in it. It came in an informal opinion expressed to Senators Connally (D-Texas) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

The president met then following their return from the foreign ministers' meeting in Paris, and OPA was one of the first things Vandenberg asked him about.

Meanwhile, the congressional battle over the now-dead agency hit a new peak of confusion, with little clear indication of what action will be taken.

Leaders of assorted blocs on Capitol Hill voiced widely-varying ideas of what will happen next.

Most of them, agreed, however, that they will have to make some fundamental changes in the Senate-approved measure or it will run into the presidential veto.

The next test will come Tuesday, when the House considers a rules committee recommendation that a Senate-House conference committee be given the task of rewriting the measure. Any action taken by such a group would be subject to votes in both chambers later.

With this showdown in the offing, these varying developments were reported:

Favor Rejections

1. Several key House Republicans, including Reps. Halleck, Indiana, and Wolcott, Michigan, said they favored rejection of the rules recommendation. They urged, instead, an immediate House ballot on the Senate provisions lifting controls from many items. Several of these GOP officials said they favored sending the Senate-passed bill, as is, to the White House.

2. Administration leaders worked feverishly to line up support for the rules suggestion. They declared their only hope of getting what they termed a "satisfactory" bill is to send it to the conference committee, where an attempt can be made to restore some of the controls.

3. Several administration spokesmen in the House told a reporter they are growing increasingly pessimistic that anything can be worked out in Congress which Mr. Truman will accept. One of them, Rep. Patman (D-Texas), said:

"We are getting discouraged. It certainly is going to be a hard fight to get a suitable bill. We will try, but I'm not sure we can do it."

Clothing Workers Select Potofsky To Succeed Hillman

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—The general executive board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (CIO) today designated Jacob S. Potofsky as president of the union to succeed Sidney Hillman, who died Wednesday.

Potofsky has been general secretary-treasurer of the union since 1940. A union spokesman said Potofsky was chosen in a unanimous decision by the board.

Hitler's Scientists Were Testing Bomber For Attack On New York

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Hitler's scientists were at work on a supersonic bomber designed to bombard New York, the army air force disclosed today—one item on a terror list of 136 secret weapons they were striving to perfect or improve at the war's end.

Col. D. L. Putt, deputy chief of the air materiel command's technical intelligence division, said the bomber was expected to reach 154 miles above the earth. It was never finished, but Putt expressed belief that "time was the only obstacle" to its completion.

The Germans hoped to destroy any city on earth with a fleet of 100 of these bombers within the space of a few days' operations, Putt said.

Asked whether any animals would be taken to the United States for further study, as originally planned, the officer exclaimed:

Ship Picketing May Be Extended

BALTIMORE, July 14 (AP)—Picketing of CIO-manned ships in Baltimore harbor, now directed at two vessels, may be extended to additional ships tomorrow, Frank Holland, chairman of the joint strike committee of the locals of two AFL seamen's unions, disclosed.

Holland said the action resulted from a West coast jurisdictional dispute between national heads of the Seafarers' International Union and the Seafarers' Union of the Pacific both AFL, with the committee for Maritime unity, a CIO organization.

"How long it will take until something is settled I don't know," the local official said, "but until an agreement is reached we will strike against all their ships."

Great Britain May Be Using Loan This Week

Administration Now Faces Question Of Grants For Other Nations

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Anglo-American trade officials believed today Great Britain may be drawing upon her $3,750,000,000 loan within a week.

The next question, among administration leaders, is how much money this nation may be expected to loan to other foreign nations, and whether Congress will provide the funds. The big question mark is a loan to Russia, discussed on the basis of about $1,000,000,000 but with negotiations stymied on the issue of what Russia concessions might be considered along with the talk about cash.

As Congress is expected to recess within a few weeks, and the Export-Import bank is down to its last billion dollars, many congressmen say it is highly questionable whether any cash for big new foreign loans will be available this year.

The possibility of a Russian loan entered into the debate over the British credit, with evidence that there would be strong opposition.

The last formality in making the long-debated fund available to Great Britain will be the signing of (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

Russia Charges U.S. Will Not Renounce Bomb Secrets

MOSCOW, July 14 (AP)—A commentator in the official Communist newspaper Pravda charged today that "ruling circles" in the United States in general have no intention of renouncing the atom bomb.

M. Marinin, upholding the Soviet plan for control of atomic energy as contrasted with the United States proposal outlined by Bernard Baruch, declared:

"The atomic bomb called into being 'atomic diplomacy' and from the entire period of discussion of the problem of atomic energy in the United States the conclusion is reached that ruling circles in the United States in general do not intend to renounce the atomic weapon."

Another Pravda writer said the question of economic unification of Germany was "now an order of the day." He added that the Soviet union favored such a plan, but that it could be achieved only by a unitary central government, with genuine "democratization" of Germany as a forerunner.

Mitchell Asks Law To Force May On Stand

Suggests Extraordinary Legislation Compelling Kentuckian To Testify

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Senator Mitchell (D-Wash.) today urged the extraordinary use of legislation to hale Rep. May (D-Ky.) to the witness stand on the Senate House investigating committee's own terms to explain under oath about helping a munitions combine with its war contracts.

Meanwhile the committee summoned more witnesses to dig further into the issue of the munitions makers' Washington activities and influence.

Suggests Resolution
Mitchell suggested the committee draft a formal resolution ordering the Kentucky chairman of the House Military committee, to testify.

This would require approval of both house and senate.

The committee and May were deadlocked over the question of the congressman's voluntary appearance after a frosty exchange of letters.

Rivers, Harbors To Get $2,500,000

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—More than $2,500,000 will be spent on maintenance of rivers and harbors projects lying wholly or partially in Maryland during the coming year.

Army engineers announced today their allocations by states of the $308,845,250 appropriated by Congress for the civil works program during the fiscal year which started July 1.

The report details proposed expenditures on rivers and harbors projects, including maintenance, and new construction and advance planning on flood control projects.

Maryland was allotted no funds for new rivers and harbors projects or for flood control work.

The largest allocation for work in the state was for the maintenance and care of the inland waterway between the Delaware river and Chesapeake bay. The project lies in both Delaware and the Free state.

Churchill Fears No 3 Holocaust

Calls For Europe To "Rise From Ruins" And Avoid Another War

METZ, FRANCE, July 14 (AP)—Winston Churchill called on Europe today to "rise from her ruins and spare the world a third and possibly fatal holocaust" and declared that a strong France was necessary to achieve this goal.

The former British prime minister, speaking at a Bastille day celebration marking the 157th anniversary of the French revolution, said that there could be "no revival of Europe of its culture without a strong France."

Political observers were quick to note the great appeal Churchill made to France, without directly referring to a western bloc or even a written alliance between France and Great Britain.

"Europe must take first place in our thoughts," he insisted. "May there be a decent life achieved and set up for Europeans." He then carefully pointed up his next remark: "Europe is my first word. My second watchword is 'France.'"

He referred to the necessity for British-French understanding and said: "You must never allow the slightest recrimination between Great Britain and France."

Speaking at a dinner given in his honor by the Municipality of Metz, Churchill referred to Russia as "our heroic ally."

"Twice," he said, "have the United States spent blood in coming to Europe. Twice has great Britain and the commonwealth done the same, and twice has our heroic ally Russia. There must be no third time."

"Europe must rise from her ruins," he thundered the present leader of Great Britain's opposition party, "and spare the world a third and possibly fatal holocaust."

UN Atomic Group Begins Drafting Control Treaty

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER
NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—The Australian and Brazilian delegates to the 12-member United Nations Atomic Energy Commission mapped today the immediate work of the group as it began its task of drafting a proposed treaty for controlling the atom.

The Australian is Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, who guided the commission through phase one of its labors—during which all views were explored.

The Brazilian is Capt. Alvaro Alberto da Motta Silva, who technically became chairman of the commission under the plan of rotating that post each month by the English alphabetical order of the commission membership.

Capt. Alberto indicated today that he and Dr. Evatt still were conferring on the future schedule of the three committees set up by the working committee of the commission at a lengthy closing meeting Friday. It was expected an announcement might be made tomorrow.

The first committee established Friday for the phase two, treaty-making operation, will recommend measures of control, sanctions, and observance of steps to insure the prevention of the use of atomic energy for destructive purposes.

The second committee will handle the controversial veto question in its field of legal points. It also will deal with the relationship between the atomic control agency and the U. N. Security council.

Scientific and technical experts will make up the third committee which will consider and recommend proposals for the exchange of scientific information and for developing atomic energy for peaceful uses.

Man Is Drowned

Hiller's Scientists Were Testing Bomber For Attack On New York

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—Hiller's scientists were at work on a supersonic bomber designed to bombard New York, the army air forces disclosed today—one item on a terror list of 136 secret weapons they were striving to perfect or improve at the war's end.

Col. D. L. Putt, deputy chief of the air materiel command's technical intelligence division, said the bomber was expected to reach 154 miles above the earth. It was never finished, but Putt expressed belief that "time was the only obstacle" to its completion.

The Germans hoped to destroy any city on earth with a fleet of 100 of these bombers within the space of a few days' operations, Putt said.

Taken As Hint He Will Veto Present Bill

Asserts Present Draft
"Couldn't Be In Worse Shape"

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—President Truman served notice on Congress today that he dislikes pending OPA legislation as much, or possibly even more, than the price control bill he vetoed two weeks ago.

Mr. Truman asserted specifically that the measure, as passed by the Senate Saturday, "is in terrible shape" and "couldn't be any worse."

This was taken generally as a hint that he may veto the new bill, unless basic changes are made in it. It came in an informal opinion expressed to Senators Connally (D-Texas) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

The president met them following their return from the foreign ministers' meeting in Paris, and OPA was one of the first things Vandenberg asked him about.

Ideas Vary
Meanwhile, the congressional battle over the now-dead agency has a new peak of confusion, with little clear indication of what action will be taken.

Leaders of assorted blocs on Capitol Hill voiced widely-varying ideas of what will happen next.

Most of them agreed, however, that they will have to make some fundamental changes in the Senate-approved measure or it will run into the presidential veto.

The next test will come Tuesday, when the House considers a rules committee recommendation that a Senate-House conference committee be given the task of rewriting the measure. Any action taken by such a group would be subject to votes in both chambers later.

With this showdown in the offing, these varying developments were reported:

Favor Rejections

1. Several key House Republicans, including Reps. Haleck, Indiana, and Wadsworth, Michigan, said they favored rejection of the rules recommendation. They urged, instead, an immediate House ballot on the Senate provisions lifting controls from many items. Several of these GOP officials said they favored sending the Senate-passed bill, as is, to the White House.

2. Administration leaders worked feverishly to line up support for the rules suggestion. They declared their only hope of getting what they termed a "satisfactory" bill is to send it to the conference committee, where an attempt can be made to restore some of the controls.

3. Several administration spokesmen in the House told a reporter they are growing increasingly pessimistic that anything can be worked out in Congress which Mr. Truman will accept. One of them, Rep. Putnam (D-Texas), said:

"We are getting discouraged. It certainly is going to be a hard fight to get a suitable bill. We will try, but I'm not sure we can do it."

Clothing Workers Select Potofsky To Succeed Hillman

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—The general executive board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (CIO) today designated Jacob S. Potofsky as president of the union to succeed Sidney Hillman, who died Wednesday.

Potofsky has been general secretary-treasurer of the union since 1940.

A union spokesman said Potofsky was chosen in a unanimous decision by the board.

The Germans hoped to destroy any city on earth with a fleet of 100 of these bombers within the space of a few days' operations, Putt said.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—Come January, Alexander Knox goes to RKO for "Indian Summer" on an unusual deal. In addition to emoting in the picture, he has a contract to collaborate with Boris Ingster on the screenplay. Knox is beginning to be known as quite a writer. He has a co-screenplay credit on "Slater Kenny" plus three novels on the market two under novel de plumes and "Bride of Quetzalcoatl" under his own name.

Actors writing their own screen material are becoming quite a thing. Brynne Foy has turned the French stinging star, Charles Trenet, loose on his own story "Of This I Dream" for a movie debut, and Kenny Delmar will write some of Senator Claghorn's stuff. Cornel Wilde authored a story of Byrnes he'd like to do on the screen. Getting back to "Indian Summer," it's an original by Ingster about a staid, small town judge who kicks over the traces for a wild fling with romance. Michel Eklake and Sid Rogell are in the production seat.

Nice record for John Lund. His first picture, "To Each His Own," has shown only at the Music Hall in New York, and yet he is battling an average of 500 fan letters per week at Paramount. This has not been lost on his bosses who believe Lund is set for a big romantic click. At least they have set him for the romantic lead in "The Wayfarers," the Don Wickenden novel, to co-star with Edward G. Robinson. Lund's role is that of a charming heel—but it didn't hurt Gable to get started that way, did it?

Cecil B. De Mille's famous bathtub scenes have finally caught up with him. The maestro of the sunken tub has a scene in "Unconquered" in which Paulette Goddard is supposed to make with abruptions in half a barrel, (a la the 1763 custom) which has thrown the Johnson office into a tizzy. The keepers of the moral code say that too much of Paulette will be visible in a half barrel and insist that she be covered in suds. But soap in 1946 didn't give with billows and bubbles argues poor C. B. well, it will give with billows of bubbles on the screen, or no scene—retorts the Johnson boys. Further reports on this fascinating impasse as developments occur.

A line or two: Apparently Mike Todd and his estranged wife are on better terms. She's allowing their son, Mike Jr., to come to the coast next week to visit Sir . . . The silent contest of the obituary publishers' hotel polling Hollywood "writers" to nominate the "happiest married couple in Hollywood"—was won by Dinah Shore and George Montgomery. George and Dinah are happy—but not about this absurd honor. I wonder just how many bonafide Hollywood "scribes" actually voted in the obituary publicity inspired contest? Mmmmm Fay Marlowe asked for her release from 20th after three and a half years and heads for New York for a musical comedy fling. . . . When the Pioneer Town Corporation, a 35,000-acre land project in San Bernardino, presided at a "Messianic" in nature amphitheater setting, the production will be filmed in 16 and 35 mm. for religious distribution.

Paris fashions will again be definitely influenced by American movies just as soon as the French belles get a look at Hyndman. So says Jean Louis, Columbia fashion head, just back from a long stay in Paris. "The Parisiennes have not seen any pictures made in Hollywood more recently than five or six years," says Mons. Louis, "and naturally, are not impressed with the old styles. But they will be when the newer films are released. French girls and women were always influenced by movie fashions even when Paris designers ignored Hollywood clothes, or brushed them off as un-chic." LOUIS DOES NOT believe that the exaggerated high style of the current Paris trend will become popular in the States. Too chi-chi, and birds of paradise and airtresses on hats make actresses look matronly.

Hollywood in shorts: Bob Hope's brother, Sidney, is critically ill in Toledo, Ohio. The other night, after Cary Grant arrived at the Florence Gardens to pick up Harry Richmond and take him to a party in his long, elegant looking black car, one of the show girls, climbing into her own jalopy, cracked, "Oh, to be taken as Grant took Richmond!" It is a gag that the gal Tom Drake took to the House of Murphy was named Kelly Green—of it is it romance? When George Raft gets back from New York he may, or may not, be surprised that his romance with Mike Maures has chilled. The lady's miffed because his phone calls dropped off suddenly. John Ford coming along beautifully following his operation Wednesday—which is good news. Glenn Ford was the most embarrassed hero in town when he got his picture "snapped" by a fan the other morning just as he was picking the morning paper off the lawn in his pajamas; each year, Hollywood mystery writers give out with an award for the best chiller of the season. They call their award an "Edgar" instead of an "Oscar" because the prize is a deluxe set of Edgar Allan Poe's works. The who-dunners consider Poe the granddaddy of their craft; Jane Russell has been married to Bob Waterfield for three years—but she's just now wearing a wedding ring. Couldn't make up her mind what kind she wanted when she was married—but settled for the plain old fashioned gold band; the big attraction for Rory Calhoun in Phoenix is Barbara Jean Hindeale, pretty cattle heiress; Cletus Caldwell with Deke Harens at the saddle and drooling making with the unrated steaks. That's all today.

W.C.T.U. Will Meet
The Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the home of Mrs. John Miller, 118 Oak street. Miss Miller will be in charge of Mrs. Ruth Parvey. Members are asked to bring their knitting and crocheting needles, as Mrs. Arthur Scrogan will give instruction in needlework. The club is engaged in knitting afghans for soldiers and sailors at Walter Reid hospital.

Miss Ruth Bartlett And Eugene Light Are Engaged

Mrs. Ethel Bartlett, Pear street, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ruth Lee Bartlett, to Eugene E. Light, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myers G. Light, 511 Prince George street.

The wedding will take place Friday, August 2, in the Grace Methodist church. The Rev. Arthur L. Hunter will officiate at the ceremony. Mrs. Vincent Settle, Marchester, N. H., sister of Miss Bartlett, will be matron of honor and Glen E. Storer will serve as best man.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Allegheny high school and is employed at the information desk in McCone's Park. Eugene Light is a graduate of Fort Hill high school and served overseas with the army during the war. He is now employed by the Liberty Trust Company.

After the ceremony the couple will leave on a wedding trip to Lake Wawasee, Ind.

Methodist Young People Hold Rally

A rally of the Methodist Sub District of Young People was held Saturday afternoon at Constitution park. Youth groups from all Methodist churches in the section were represented.

A swimming party was held early in the afternoon, followed by a wicker roast. The highlight of the recreational period was a scavenger hunt. Group singing concluded the entertainment program.

During the evening, a camp fire Vesper service was held under the direction of Miss Emma Jean Smith, commissioner of worship. Thirty-one young people attended the rally.

The next rally will be held August 22, but it has not yet been announced where the affair will be held.

Wed In Church

Miss Mary Jane Cassen, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Cassen, Wellersburg, Pa., and the late Harry L. Cassen, and Pfc. Ralph A. Baker, son of Mrs. Edith Baker, Morantown, and the late George J. Baker, were married June 29 in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Frostburg.

The Rev. Justus H. Lissmann officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Goldie Baker, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and John Cassen, brother of the bride, served as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Meyersdale high school, Meyersdale, Pa. The bridegroom is stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., and upon his discharge from the army, the couple will reside in Wellersburg.

Wife Should Be Allowed To Have Outside Interests

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The day is long past when a wife was expected to live under her husband's heavy thumb and love it; to have no interests of her own; never to speak up for herself.

The only catch is that a lot of husbands don't know it. So far as their own lives are concerned, and their businesses, they're up to date. But in their marriage relationship they go back to the era of the cave-men for their tactics.

Listen to this, for instance, from a woman whose domineering husband has brought her to the verge of divorce after 10 years of misery.

"My husband tells me," she writes, "that I should love him so much I must not seek the friendship of other people, or want to do anything. I mean by that, never belong to anything, play golf, or do my nurse's aide work one day a week which I love. But if I do it against his wishes, he calls the hospital and humiliates me. If I go out with any friends, there is a big fight when I return. He even forbids me to go to see my parents. He has struck me several times, even ripped my clothes one evening when I started out the door just to sit in the park and get a little air."

Outside Interests Helpful
She would like to make decisions for herself, she goes on to say, but never dares do so, because any independent action whatever on her part leads to trouble.

"I certainly believe in a couple having outside interests," she says, "so that they do not become dull and stupid. I loathe the life he wants me to lead, it is so narrow. He has no outside interests other than his work as a Lieutenant-Colonel in the army; therefore I mustn't have any. His treatment of me has just about driven me to hate him."

Apparently, however, this bully does have at least one outside interest. "While he has overseas," the letter continues, "he carried on a correspondence with his secretary. He always said it was business. Before his boat arrived on this side, one of the secretary's letters was returned to the house, and having read it, I found it was anything but a business correspondence. I have never shown him the letter, but he says if I would, he could explain everything, as his secretary used to enjoy joking with him. I know he took her on several trips before going overseas, but these were for business reasons, so I am to believe."

Must Support Children
"He tells me that if I divorce him, he will give very little to take care of my two children. As for myself, I can manage a position. My question is, can a marriage go on under a possessive and dominating husband? I am most unhappy."

"J. W."

If I didn't know how many wives put up indefinitely with the same type of bullying, J. W. I'd say that you must have hung up some sort of endurance record by taking 10 years of it. And I don't see why in the world you go on taking it. It's not as though you were the spineless type of woman who would be lost without a man, no matter how brutal, for you say you're anxious to make decisions for yourself and have independent interests.

And since you are sure you can get a position and earn some money, what are you waiting for? Is it because your husband threatens to do so little for the children's support? Don't you know he can be forced by law to support his children, if you have good grounds for divorce—and it looks as though you had, with that secretary in the offing. You might even get support for the children with nothing more than a legal separation.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.—Come January, Alexander Knox goes to RKO for "Indian Summer" on an unusual deal. In addition to emulating in the picture, he has a contract to collaborate with Boris Ingster on the screenplay. Knox is beginning to be known as quite a writer. He has a co-screenplay credit on "Sister Kenny" plus three novels on the market two under new deplumes and "Bride of Quietness" under his own name.

Actors writing their own screen material are becoming quite a thing. Brynne Poy has turned the French singing star, Charles Trenet, loose on his own story "Of Three I Dream" for his movie debut, and Kenny Delmar will write some of Senator Claghorn's stuff. Cornel Wilde authored a story of Byron he'd like to do on the screen. Getting back to "Indian Summer," it's an original by Ingster about a staid, small town judge who kidnaps the traces for a belated fling with romance. Michel Kraike and Sid Rogell are in the production seat.

Personals

Nice record for John Lund. His first picture, "To Each His Own" has shown only at the Music Hall in New York, and yet he is battling an average of 500 fan letters per week at Paramount. This has not been lost on his bosses who believe Lund is set for a big romantic flick. At least they have set him for the romantic lead in "The Wayfarers," the Don Wickenden story, to co-star with Edward G. Robinson. Lund's role is that of charming heel—but it didn't hurt Gable to get started that way, did it?

Cecil B. De Mille's famous bathtub scenes have finally caught up with him. The maestro of the sunken tub has a scene in "Unconquered" in which Paulette Goddard is supposed to make with abruptions in half a barrel, is the Johnson office into a tizzy. The keepers of the moral code say that too much of Paulette will be visible in a half barrel and insist that she be covered in suds. But soap in 1933 didn't give with billows and bubbles argues poor C. B. well, it will give with billows of bubbles on screen, or no scene—retorts the Johnston Boys. Further reports on this fascinating impasse as developments occur.

A line or two: Apparently Mike Todd and his estranged wife are on better terms. She's allowing their son, Mike Jr., to come to the coast next week to visit Sr. . . The latest contest of the year—a Las Vegas hotel polling Hollywood "writers" to nominate the "happiest married couple in Hollywood"—was won by Dinah Shore and George Montgomery. George and Dinah are happy—but not about this absurd honor. I wonder just how many bonafide Hollywood "scribes" actually voted in the obviously publicity inspired contest? . . . Mmmmm Pay Marlowe asked for her release from 30th after three and a half years and heads for New York for a musical comedy film. . . When the Pioneer Town Corporation, a 35,000-acre land project in San Bernardino, presents Handel's "Messiah" in natural amphitheater setting, the production will be filmed in 16 and 35 mm. for religious distribution.

Hollywood in shorts: Bob Hope's brother, Sidney, is critically ill in Toledo, Ohio. The other night, after Cary Grant arrived at the Florentine Gardens to pick up Harry Richman and take him to a party in his long, elegant looking black car, one of the show girls, climbing into her own jalopy, cracked, "Oh, to be taken as Grant, look Richman!" It is a gag that the gal Tom Drake took to the House of Murphy was named Kelly Green—or is it romance? When George Raft gets back from New York he may, or may not, be surprised that his romance with Mike Maures has chilled. The lady's miffed because his phone calls dropped off suddenly. John Ford coming along beautifully following his operation Wednesday—which is good news; Glenn Ford was the most embarrassed hero in town when he got his picture "snapped" by a fan the other morning just as he was picking the morning paper off the lawn in his pajamas; each year, Hollywood mystery writers give out with an award for the best chiller of the season. They call their award an "Edgar" instead of an "Oscar" because the prize is a deluxe set of Edgar Allan Poe's works. The whodunnets consider Poe the granddaddy of their craft; Jane Russell has been married to Bob Waterfield for three years—but she's just now wearing a wedding ring. Couldn't make up her mind what kind she wanted when she was married—but settled for the plain old fashioned gold band; the big attraction for Rory Calhoun in Phoenix is Barbara Jean Hinesdale, pretty cattle heiress; Cleatus Caldwell with Dean Harens at the saddle and dirlin making with the unrattled steaks. That's all today.

Wed In Church

Miss Mary Jane Cassen, daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Cassen, Wellersburg, Pa., and the late Harry L. Cassen, and Pte. Ralph A. Baker, son of Mrs. Edith Baker, Morantown, were married June 29 in St. Paul's Lutheran church, Frostburg.

The Rev. Justus H. Lohmann officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Goldie Baker, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and John Cassen, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Miss Ruth Bartlett And Eugene Light Are Engaged

Mrs. Ethel Bartlett, Pear street, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ruth Lee Bartlett, to Eugene M. Light, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myers G. Light, 511 Prince George street.

The wedding will take place Friday, August 2, in the Grace Methodist church. The Rev. Arthur L. Hunter will officiate at the ceremony. Mrs. Vincent Settle, Manchester, N. H., sister of Miss Bartlett, will be matron of honor and Galen E. Storer will serve as best man.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Allegheny high school and is employed at the information desk in McCrory's store. Mr. Light is a graduate of Fort Hill high school and served overseas with the army during the war. He is now employed by the Liberty Trust Company.

After the ceremony the couple will leave on a wedding trip to Lake Wawasee, Ind.

Wife Should Be Allowed To Have Outside Interests

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The day is long past when a wife is expected to live under her husband's heavy thumb and love it; to have no interests of her own; never to speak up for herself.

The only catch is that a lot of husbands don't know it. So far as their own lives are concerned, and their businesses, they're up to date. But in their marriage relationship they go back to the era of the cave men for their tactics.

Listen to this, for instance, from a woman whose domineering husband has brought her to the verge of divorce after 10 years of misery. "My husband tells me," she writes, "that I should love him so much I must not seek the friendship of other people, or want to do anything. I mean by that, never belong to anything, play golf, or do my nurse's aide work one day a week which I love. But if I do it against his will, he calls the hospital and humiliates me. If I go out with any friends, there is a big fight when I return. He now even forbids me to go to see my parents. He has struck me several times, even ripped my clothes one evening when I started out the door just to sit in the park and get a little air."

Outside Interests Helpful. She would like to make decisions for herself, she goes on to say, but never dares do so, because any independent action whatever on her part leads to trouble.

"I certainly believe in a couple having outside interests," she says, "so that they do not become dull and stupid. I love the life he wants me to lead, it is so narrow. He has no outside interests other than his work as a Lieutenant-Colonel in the army; therefore I mustn't have any. His treatment of me has just about driven me to hate him."

Apparently, however, this bully does have at least one outside interest. "While he was overseas," the letter continues, "he carried on a correspondence with his secretary. He always said it was business. Before his boat arrived on this side, one of the secretary's letters was returned to his house, and having read it, I found it was anything but a business correspondence. I have never shown him the letter, but he says if I would, he could explain everything, as his secretary used to enjoy joking with him. I know he took her on several trips before going overseas, but these were for business reasons, so I am to believe."

Must Support Children

"He tells me that if I divorce him, he will give very little to take care of my two children. As for myself, I can manage a position. My question is, can a marriage go on under a possessive and dominating husband? I am most unhappy."

"I. W."

If I didn't know how many wives put up indefinitely with the same type of bullying, I. W., I'd say that you must have hung some sort of endurance record by taking 10 years of it. And I don't see why in the world you go on taking it. It's not as though you were the spineless type of woman who would be lost without a man, no matter how brutal, for you say you're anxious to make decisions for yourself and have independent interests.

And since you are sure you can get a position and earn some money, what are you waiting for? Is it because your husband threatens to do so little for the children's support? Don't you know he can be forced by law to support his children, if you have good grounds for divorce—and it looks as though you had, with that secretary in the offing. You might even get support for the children with nothing more than a legal separation.

Various Types Anemia Disease, Doctor Reports

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

In all its complex mechanism, the body has no harder workers than its oxygen-carriers, the tiny red cells of the blood.

Like microscopic beasts of burden, they work tirelessly about their work of purification, carrying oxygen from the lungs to remotest tissues and staggering back under equally heavy loads of carbon dioxide waste.

Because the body is large and the red blood cell all but infinitesimal, millions upon millions of them are required for this work. The power of these red cells to grab, hold and carry oxygen lies in their hemoglobin or red coloring matter. This is their strength and when it is reduced, the cells lose their potency.

Oxygen Power Reduced

Thus, it is apparent that the oxygen-carrying power of the blood may be reduced either by actual loss of a large number of red cells, as in bleeding, or to a lessening of their hemoglobin content due to infection or lack of iron in the diet. Whatever its cause, this condition is called anemia and usually the most important part of its treatment consists in giving some iron-containing preparation.

Practically all of the body tissues contain some iron, although the liver, the spleen and the bone marrow supply more iron for the formation of red blood cells than do others. Sometimes anemia develops because an abnormal condition of the bone marrow prevents proper utilization of iron.

More often, however, it is due directly to iron deficiency. One type is the hypochromic nutritional anemia of infancy and childhood. If a baby is born before the normal time, it will, in all likelihood, not have the normal quantity of iron stored in its tissues.

Rapid growth increases the need for iron, so that even those babies who start out with an adequate supply, need more in the diet. So does the growing child. An infant who receives only milk will not get enough iron. Thus a faulty diet may contribute to anemia in babies and little children.

A second type is called chronic hemorrhagic anemia, which merely means that anemia has occurred from continued bleeding from some source. Obviously, the treatment is to find the source of the bleeding and to eliminate it. The giving of some iron-containing preparation will, of course, aid in blood replacement.

A third type is called achlorhydric, which means lack of acid in the stomach. This type occurs most often in women. In this condition, the anemia results from failure to absorb or take up enough iron from the food eaten, because of lack of acid in the stomach.

Anemia of Pregnancy
A fourth type is called hypochromic anemia of pregnancy. During the child-bearing time the mother-to-be must not only have sufficient iron to supply her own needs, but also enough for the baby. A faulty diet, an achlorhydria are contributing factors for the development of this condition.

When iron is necessary, it can be satisfactorily administered in practically all cases by mouth, in the form of tablets or a liquid preparation. The liquid preparations are as a rule more satisfactory for children.

It must be remembered that alkaline substances, such as baking soda, may interfere with the absorption of iron. Hence, in anemia the taking of such preparations should be avoided, if possible.

The doctor will decide what type of anemia is present, and what treatment should be employed for it, particularly the type of iron preparation to use.

to secure the payment of the loan and interest? We do not have the money to lend. We must borrow from our own people. Our national debt is now approximately $275,000,000.

I feel that any money we have to give away should go to our own people—our veterans and the aged. In doing that our money and goods would stay in the United States. "I am proud of the fact that I am of Scotch-English ancestry. I admire British people and statesmen and their loyalty to their own country. They put the welfare of Britain and her people ahead of any nation and any people, and that is exactly what I am doing for our country in opposing this agreement."

Admits Giving Aid
May himself has acknowledged that he helped the combine and its promoters, Murray and Henry Garson—"good friends of mine"—but has said he was motivated only by a desire to help the war effort and that he did not personally profit.

Discarding customary amenities and polite formalities of congressional exchange, the committee in a letter flung at May Saturday the assertion that it has concluded he is "unable to explain or contradict" testimony linking him to Washington dealings of the munitions makers.

In sharp reply, May denounced as "unwarranted" the committee's conclusion that his reply to an invitation to testify shows that he admits "facts" gathered in the inquiry "to be true."

May denied that, in setting up his conditions for a personal appearance, he had "declined" to appear voluntarily.

Moscow Radio Still Opposes Atom Plan

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—The Moscow radio declared tonight that the new United States memorandum on the atomic energy control question "does not differ in principle" from the Soviet-opposed Baruch plan.

The United States, in a memorandum to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission disclosed last night, proposed that the veto on atomic questions be eliminated by international treaty rather than by amendment to the United Nations Charter.

County Liquor

could be issued and the 1894 law would not be in effect, since the law passed in 1933 repealed the 1894 statute.

In event Judge Mish ruled the 1933 act unconstitutional, it was said the case would be carried to the Court of Appeals, and if the ruling was sustained there, the county would have no licensed places until the next session of the Legislature in January, when a new law could be enacted.

Counsel for Clerk Jackson also asserted that the section of the 1933 act limiting the number of licenses to one for every 1,500 persons in the county is legal, and that such a limitation has been upheld in various courts of the United States, and the provision vesting in the judges with discretion as to the issuance of licenses have likewise been upheld "as a valid exercise of the police power of the state, the holdings of the Courts being that a state may limit the number of intoxicating liquor licenses within a municipality or other political sub-division, and that such a limitation impairs no person's constitutional rights."

Old 'Evils' Cited
"Evils" of the 1894 act were cited in the answer, which pointed out that there are now 58 licenses issued in the county, based upon a population figure for the county in the 1940 census, and 42 club licenses had been issued up to April 30 of this year, making a total of 100 liquor permits.

Under the 1894 act, licenses were not divided into classes, as is the case under the current law, and a permit allowed the holder to sell liquor, beer or any alcoholic beverage. Between 1907 and 1916, the lowest number of licenses issued in any one year was 365 and the highest number was 502, attorneys for the county clerk declared.

They also asserted that in 1916, a total of 110 indictments were returned by grand juries for liquor law violations, while the highest number of indictments in any one year, under the 1933 act, was 17—of which number 16 were for violations by persons licensed to sell beer only.

Point to Temptations
"Under the 1894 law," the attorneys declared, "there were so many places licensed to sell liquor that it was impossible for many of them to be financially successful, with the result that a large majority were subjected to the temptation to sell liquor after hours and on Sundays, and to sell to minors and habitual drunkards."

Backed By Others
Cromwell is said to be backed in the litigation by the Allegheny County League for Equal Rights, which includes a number of men who have been unable to obtain liquor licenses in recent years. The Allegheny County Retail Liquor Dealers Association on the other hand has always opposed moves to have the 1933 act revised or tested in the courts.

Attorneys for Clerk Jackson, in their answer to Cromwell's petition for a writ of mandamus, declared that Section 2 of Chapter 5 of the 1933 session of the Legislature, in setting up the new liquor control law, specifically repealed the "saloon law" of 1894, and the clerk was without authority to accept Cromwell's application under the 1894 statute.

When the new license year began May 1 and applicants appeared in court for permits, Cromwell again requested a liquor license and was again informed by the judges: "They are all gone—we have none to give." He was granted a beer license, however, by the judges.

Cromwell also sought at one time to obtain a Class C club license for the National Service Club at the Braddock Road location, but a remonstrance was filed, and no hearing was ever held on the request.

The German missiles, Putt said, "used every known type of remote control and fusing means, including radio control, radar, radio CW (continuous wave), acoustics, infrared, light beams and magnetics. In similar fashion all methods of employing jet propulsion for subsonic and supersonic speeds were being fully exploited."

Although the Nazis lacked the atomic bomb, the Review said there was reason to believe they hoped until the end to be able to perfect some sort of atomic explosive to arm the V-2s with which they blasted London and Antwerp.

o'clock in Memorial hospital where she was admitted last Thursday.

Mrs. Kerns had lived in South Cumberland for the greater part of her life but had made her home with her brother, Ethan Allan Hoover for a number of years since her husband, A. B. Kerns, died. She was a native of Clearfield, Pa., a daughter of the late Elizabeth Ann McKee Hoover. Two other brothers, A. Bloom and William Hoover both preceded her in death.

EDWARD KNIGHT RITES

Services for Edward A. Knight, 65, 627 Quebec avenue, retired B. and O. conductor, who died Wednesday, were conducted Saturday at the home by the Rev. Donald F. Erskine, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church. Interment was in Hillcrest cemetery.

Palbearers were A. F. White, Ross Wolfe, Edward Gallagher, E. D. Bunner, James R. Long, and R. K. Callitt.

MERRITT RITES

Funeral services for William Franklin Merritt, 72, 191 Thomas street, who died Thursday in Memorial hospital, were conducted yesterday at 2 p. m. in the George funeral home.

The Rev. Dr. H. Hall Sharp, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, officiated at the rites for the retired local merchant and burial was in St. Luke's cemetery.

Palbearers were Luther Hunter, James Wiant, George Nixon, R. K. Lathrum, Frank Moreland and Joseph Manthey.

O'Donnell Brothers Services Are Held
Funeral services for John Joseph and Ambrose B. O'Donnell, 110 South Johnson street, who were killed when they fell beneath the wheels of a B. and O. freight train between Sand and Patch and Confluence, Pa., early Thursday morning, were conducted Saturday at 3 p. m. in the Stein funeral home.

The Rev. Irenaeus Reim, O. F. M. Cap. pastor SS. Peter and Paul Catholic church, officiated and interment was in Hillcrest cemetery. Palbearers for Ambrose were Philip Barkman, Ralph Seibert, Harry James, Christy Glingerman, Louis Lindner and Edward Robette.

Members of Port Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, assisted in services for John Joseph with Vernon J. Winner, Ralph D. Winner, Albert Kerns, Paul Faupel and William M. Wilson as palbearers. Carl Ryan and Vermont Zolner were colorbearers; David Rinker Jr. and John Jockle, color guards, and Harry H. Barley sounded taps.

that delegates to the Legion Ladies Auxiliary convention will hold their sessions in the Knights of Columbus hall, North Mechanic street.

Frank Fowler, commander of Mountain District, and Samuel A. Graham, commander of Post No. 13, both reported yesterday that convention business will probably include legislation to cut down the number of convention delegates in the rapidly growing state organization.

At the present time, the Legion laws provide that two delegates shall be selected for every 100 members with three for the charter. Both Powers and Graham expressed the belief that this number may be cut to one delegate for every 100 members at the forthcoming convention.

Another piece of legislation likely to be considered would be to amend the present method of replacement of a department commander who, for any cause, vacates his office, Graham and Powers said.

A resolution that would empower the department executive to secure immediate action on applications for charters received 30 days or more prior to any of its meetings by using the U. S. mails, will also probably be presented on the convention floor, it was reported.

Powers, just back from a Legion executive committee meeting in Baltimore, predicted that Baltimore will send at least 600 delegates to the convention.

Powers said that three candidates for department commander to succeed Martin P. Iverson, Takoma Park, have already appeared on the horizon. The candidates are Joseph Perri, Baltimore, John Eochen, Baltimore, and Floyd Peets, Brunswick.

Souvenir Program
"The big problem facing this convention, of course, will be housing," Powers said. "Baltimore Legionnaires were inquiring only this week regarding this problem but I'm confident the matter will be met and handled. Bowers is an old hand at that sort of thing."

At the same time, Graham pointed out that big conventions faced a housing problem no matter where they went these days and that Cumberland was by no means unique in this respect.

Veterans are now soliciting Cumberland merchants for advertisements in the souvenir convention program to be published by the Legion for the event.

BETHESDA MAN IS FATALLY INJURED IN CAR-TRUCK CRASH

James Hoard, about 40, 7134 Bradley boulevard, Bethesda, died in Memorial hospital Saturday morning at 4:30 o'clock as a result of injuries suffered when the car he was driving collided with a coal truck on Route 50, four miles east of Romney, W. Va.

Hoard, who was admitted to the hospital late Friday night, suffered a laceration above the left eye, a fracture of the left forearm and internal injuries.

Authorities believed the Bethesda man was on his way to Youghiogheny forest, near Oakland, to visit his wife when his car collided with the truck driven by Andrew Jackson McDonald, Winchester, Va.

The body has been taken to the home in Bethesda.

Set L. W. Kelley, of the West Virginia State Police detachment at Romney, is investigating the crash.

KINGWOOD ATHLETE KILLED INSTANTLY
Vaughn Shaffer, 17, a former football player on the Kingwood, W. Va., high school team, was killed in a head-on collision with a West Virginia Northern railroad where he was working as a brakeman. He had been employed about a month.

Shaffer, a son of Ray Shaffer, one time local roadrunner, was killed at Miller No. 3 mine about one mile south of the railroad shops in Kingwood, according to Prosecuting Attorney R. Doyle Halbritter, Sheriff Hobart Spidier, Corner H. Foster Hartman, and Deputy Sheriff Charles Kiser, who investigated.

Shaffer's death was the third accident reported on the railroad this week. Another piece of legislation likely to be considered would be to amend the present method of replacement of a department commander who, for any cause, vacates his office, Graham and Powers said.

Howard's Air Records Eyed By Edmondson

"Woody" Edmondson and his "clip-clip" monocoque is out to steal Beverly "Bevo" Howard's national championship in low altitude and precision acrobatic flying when the two meet in Cumberland at the Junior Association of Commerce-Cumberland Airways air show at municipal airport, August 4.

According to a recent letter to members of the committee planning the Cumberland show, Edmondson points out that he has installed a more powerful engine in his plane since last meeting Howard in stiff competitive flying at Jacksonville, Fla., last month and hopes to take the first step in snatching Howard's national championship from him at the Cumberland event.

The two flyers have met in several close competitions since the end of the war. Howard has managed to fly away with the honors and retain the national championship he has held for nearly a decade in each event.

Edmondson, who has placed a close second to Howard in the top air events in the nation, hopes to reverse the situation at the Cumberland show and from reports by those who have seen the flyers in action, a more powerful engine is all the Lynchburg, Va., flyer needs to grab the national crown from the veteran.

Championship Isn't Sure
Whether the actual National championship will be at stake in the Cumberland show is yet to be learned, but from preparations Edmondson is making for the event he apparently expects to make headlines in the country's top aviation magazines and newspapers with the intention of being rated the equal of, if not actually superior to Howard, when the national championship is again laid on the line.

Edward H. Wolfe Heads Blacksmith Brotherhood

Edward H. Wolfe, Bedford road, was installed president of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Council No. 4, International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers, in Pittsburgh, Pa., recently.

The position entitles the local man to a place on the executive board of System Federation No. 30 which comprises all non-operating railroad crafts.

Although his duties will take him over the entire B. and O. system, Wolfe's headquarters will remain in this city.

He has been an employee of the railroad here since 1928 and began as a blacksmith's apprentice. He was recording secretary of Local 32 of the union and a shop chairman on the third shift.

Barton Man Will Be Quizzed In Theft Case

Stanley McLeod, about 23, who lives at Potomac Hollow, near Barton, will be questioned at the state's attorney's office this morning concerning the breaking and entering of a home near Barton, Trooper First Class Harry Holsinger, of the Maryland State Police reported.

Trooper Holsinger said that McLeod had confessed and made restitution of a number of articles including some furniture, towels and a cedar chest from the home of Andrew Preston, RFD, Barton, over the weekend.

The theft was discovered after Preston, who had been visiting his wife, a patient in Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, returned to his home last night about 7 o'clock, the trooper said.

Wife Beater Receives Suspended Sentence

Walter Ravenscraft, 38, Midland, a former soldier, received a suspended sentence of six months in the Maryland House of Correction from Trial Magistrate Frank A. Perdue, Saturday, on a charge of assaulting his wife, Mrs. Doris Ravenscraft.

Mrs. Ravenscraft appeared in trial magistrates' court with a bruised jaw and other bruises, said her husband is a drunk and a violent man, and is not only when under the influence of intoxicants. Testimony showed the man was arrested twice previously for assaulting his wife. Mrs. Ravenscraft is employed as a cook at Miners' hospital, Frostburg.

Magistrate Perdue suspended the sentence, he said, on condition that Ravenscraft refrain from the use of all intoxicants.

Soldier Is Held

Pvt. Stephen C. Long, Frostburg, is being held in the city jail for Maryland State Police. Trooper G. M. Rotruck, who apprehended Pvt. Long early yesterday morning, said the soldier overstayed his leave en route from Aberdeen Proving Ground to Camp Kilmer, N. J.

Will Receive Hearings

Homer Stierfoster, 28 Greene street, and Joseph Monnett, 89 Henderson avenue, will receive hearings in police court this morning on charges of making unnecessary noise on Virginia avenue. The motorcyclists were arrested at 9 p. m. yesterday by Officer Joseph Stichter.

Will Receive Hearing

Two local youths, one 14 and the other 15, arrested Saturday afternoon by city police on a charge of discharging firearms within the city limits were released in custody of their parents pending a hearing in juvenile court.

To Receive Hearing

James F. Martin, 513 East Oldtown road, will be given a hearing in police court this morning on a charge of careless driving. He was arrested yesterday at 1:45 a. m. by Officer P. M. Crabtree.

Geppert's Will Probated

The will of William L. Geppert, late managing editor of the Cumberland News, was probated in probate court Friday in orphans court. He left his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Ruth Hankey Geppert. She declined to be named executrix.

Telephone Company Honors Operator Who Died In Fire

A gold Val Medal and $1000 has been posthumously awarded Mrs. Julia C. Berry, telephone operator who sacrificed her life that others might escape the smoke and flames during the LaSalle hotel fire, June 5, in Chicago. The awards, signifying supreme courage, loyalty and devotion to duty, will be presented to her son, John Joseph Berry, 15, who was left an orphan by his mother's death.

Announcement of the award was made by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company following a meeting of the Bell System National Committee of Award for Theodore N. Vail Medals.

Mrs. Berry was alone at the switchboard on the second floor of the 22 story hotel when the fire started on the ground floor. When she was notified of the fire she called the fire department and then began calling room after room to warn hotel guests of the danger. She refused to leave until her job was completed and when the fire was extinguished she was found dead at her post.

Cumberland Platoon Is Making Progress At Parris Island

Platoon No. 164, as the Cumberland Marine Corps platoon is designated at Parris Island, S. C., is reported making excellent progress in its recruit training program.

The platoon has completed preliminary courses in first aid, marine corps history and traditions, military courtesy, nomenclature of the M-1 rifle, close order drill and bayonet practice.

This week, the platoon is on the rifle range. Marksmanship in the platoon is a four-week basic course, and the platoon took basic training in the subject last week. The men will shoot over the small bore or 22 calibre course. The next two weeks will be spent on the "big range," shooting the record course. The last of the four weeks also includes firing the carbine. Burning automatic, anti-tank grenade and fragmentation hand grenade as well as the M-1.

Fulton Myers Drum Corps Has Heavy Summer Schedule

Fulton Myers Post No. 53, American Legion drum corps, recently won prizes staged in Garrett, Bozwell and Salisbury, Pa., according to Harry Fisher, director, yesterday he announced the units schedule for the summer months.

Fisher said the junior drum major and majorettes have also been complimented upon their fine performances.

The corps is scheduled to appear in a number of public demonstrations including Saxton, Pa., July 18; Everett, Pa., July 24; Rockwood, Pa., July 25; Fairhance, Pa., July 25; McCoole, July 25; Friendsville, July 26; Windber, Pa., August 9; Meyersdale, Pa., September 4.

Corriganville Legion Post Receives Charter

A new American Legion post was instituted as Corriganville last week, when 28 members were initiated, officers installed and a temporary charter was presented. Designated as Corriganville Post No. 130, American Legion, the charter presentation was made by George Henderson, former Maryland Department commander.

Officers were installed by Frank Powers, Frostburg, Mountain district vice commander. A team from Port Cumberland Post No. 13, conducted the initiation and included Samuel A. Graham, post commander; Filmore F. Fleming, commander; elect; John R. Kelly, Paul C. Weisenmiller, and Raymond T. Farrell. Also attending were Thomas F. Conlon, Charles G. Smith, Russell C. Paupe, John Sloan, and Paul W. Weisenmiller.

Officers of the new post are James H. Thompson, commander; Joseph E. Garlitz, vice commander; James H. Thompson, adjutant and finance officer; Augustus C. Duckworth, historian; Henry J. Getson, sergeant at arms; Keith W. Phillips, chaplain; G. Chester DeHaven, service officer.

Mrs. William Myers Is Awarded Divorce

Wilhelmina Skidmore Myers, 31, Shaft, was granted a divorce Saturday in circuit court from William H. Myers, said to reside in Tennessee, after she testified that he "had girls in at least three states" while he was serving in the army.

Represented by Edward J. Ryan, the wife said they were married February 10, 1934, and lived together until February 28 this year. Under the decree, signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster, the wife is awarded the custody of their two children.

Mrs. Myers testified that her husband, while in the army, wrote to her asking that she get a divorce. She said he admitted having girls in Locomoing, Texas and Tennessee.

Two Building Permits Are Granted Here

Mark A. Schriver, 514 Broadway circle, secured a building permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to construct a one-story one-car garage on Lots 24 and 25 in Block 4 on Summit avenue at an estimated cost of $600. The building, which will measure 22 by 22 feet, will have a foundation and walls of concrete block and a composition single roof. Work will be done by the owner.

William L. Norwood, Zihlman way, secured a permit to build a five-room house on Lot 7, Zihlman way, at an estimated cost of $4,600. The brick structure will measure 25 by 24 feet and will be one and a half story high, with a concrete block foundation and a composition shingle roof. Work will be done by Hayes Northcraft, from plans furnished by the owner.

LISTEN WORLD

Various Types Anemia Disease, Doctor Reports

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

In all its complex mechanism, the body has no harder workers than its oxygen-carriers, the tiny red cells of the blood.

Like microscopic beasts of burden, they move endlessly about their work of purification, carrying oxygen from the lungs to remotest tissues and staggering back under equally heavy loads of carbon dioxide waste.

Because the body is large and the red blood cell all but infinitesimal, millions upon millions are required for this work. The power of these red cells to grab, hold and carry oxygen lies in their hemoglobin or red coloring matter. This is their strength and when it is reduced, the cells lose their potency.

Oxygen Power Reduced

Thus, it is apparent that the oxygen-carrying power of the blood may be reduced either by actual loss of a large number of red cells, as in bleeding, or to a lessening of their hemoglobin content due to infection or lack of iron in the diet. Whatever its cause, this condition is called anemia and usually the most important part of its treatment consists in giving some iron-containing preparation.

Practically all of the body tissues contain some iron, although the liver, the spleen and the bone marrow supply more iron for the formation of red blood cells than do others. Sometimes anemia develops because an abnormal condition of the bone marrow prevents proper utilization of iron.

More often, however, it is due directly to iron deficiency. One type is the hypochromic nutritional anemia of infancy and childhood. If a baby is born before the normal time, it will, in all likelihood, not have the normal quantity of iron stored in its tissues.

Rapid growth increases the need for iron, so that even those babies who start out with an adequate supply need more iron as they grow. If a baby receives only milk will not get enough iron. Thus a faulty diet may contribute to anemia in babies and little children.

A second type is called chronic hemorrhagic anemia, which merely means that anemia has occurred from continued bleeding from some source. Obviously, the treatment is to find the source of the bleeding and to eliminate it. The giving of some iron-containing preparation will, of course, aid in blood replacement.

A third type is called achlorhydric, which means lack of acid in the stomach. This type occurs most often in women. In this condition, the anemia results from failure to absorb or take up enough iron from the food eaten, because of lack of acid in the stomach.

Anemia of Pregnancy
A fourth type is called hypochromic anemia of pregnancy. During the child-bearing time the mother must not only have sufficient iron to supply her own needs, but also enough for the baby. A faulty diet and achlorhydria are contributing factors for the development of this condition.

If iron is necessary, it can be satisfactorily administered in practically all cases by mouth, in the form of tablets or a liquid preparation. The liquid preparations are as a rule more satisfactory for children.

The doctor will decide what type of anemia is present, and what treatment should be employed for it, particularly the type of iron preparation to use.

to secure the payment of the loan and interest? We do not have the money to lend. We must borrow from our own people. Our national debt is now approximately $275,000,000,000.

"I feel that any money we have to give away should go to our own people—our veterans and the aged. In doing that our money and goods would stay in the United States. I am proud of the fact that I am of Scotch-English ancestry. I admire British people and statesmen and their loyalty to their own country. They place the welfare of Britain and her people ahead of any nation and any people, and that is exactly what I am doing for our country in opposing this agreement."

Admits Giving Aid
May himself has acknowledged that he helped the combine and its promoters, Murray and Henry Garzon—"good friends of mine"—but has said he was motivated only by a desire to help the war effort and that he did not personally profit.

Discarding customary amenities and polite formalities of congressional exchange, the committee in a letter thing to May Saturday the assertion that it has concluded he is "unable to explain or contradict" testimony linking him to Washington dealings of the munitions makers.

In sharp reply, May denounced as "unwarranted" the committee's conclusion that he had accepted an invitation to testify, showing that he admits "facts" gathered in the inquiry "to be true."

May denied that, in setting up his conditions for a personal appearance, he had "declined" to appear voluntarily.

SCENE AT PENNSY TRAIN WRECK

TWISTED COAL CARS and two locomotives lie along the bank of the Juniata river as wrecking crews work to clear tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad following a wreck yesterday at Lewistown, Pa. More than a score of persons were hurt when the railroad's Chicago-New York Broadway Limited crashed into the wrecked cars and pile of coal left on the right-of-way by the earlier derailment of several cars in the coal train.

Moscow Radio Still Opposes Atom Plan

LONDON, July 14.—(P)—The Moscow radio declared tonight that the new United States memorandum on the atomic energy control question "does not differ in principle" from the Soviet-opposed Baruch plan.

The United States, in a memorandum to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission disclosed last night, proposed that the veto on atomic questions be eliminated by international treaty rather than by amendment to the United Nations Charter.

could be issued and the 1894 law would not be in effect, since the law passed in 1933 repealed the 1894 statute.

In event Judge Mish ruled the 1933 act unconstitutional, it was said the case would be carried to the court of appeals, and if the ruling was sustained there, the county would have no licensed places until the next session of the Legislature, in January, when a new law could be enacted.

Counsel for Clerk Jackson also asserted that the section of the 1933 act limiting the number of licenses to one for every 1,500 population in the county is legal, and that such a limitation has been upheld in various courts of the United States, and the provisions regarding the judges with discretion as to the issuance of licenses have likewise been upheld "as a valid exercise of the police power of the state, the holdings of the courts state that a state may limit the number of intoxicating liquor licenses within a municipality or other political sub-division, and that such a limitation impairs no person's constitutional rights."

Old "Evils" Cited
"Evils" of the 1894 act were cited in the answer, which pointed out that there are now 58 licenses issued in the county, based upon a population figure for the county in the 1940 census, and 42 club licenses had been issued up to April 30 this year, making a total of 100 liquor permits.

Under the 1894 act, licenses were not divided into classes, as is the case under the current law, and a permit allowed the holder to sell liquor, beer or any alcoholic beverage. Between 1907 and 1916, the lowest number of licenses issued in any one year was 385 and the highest number was 502, attorneys for the court clerk declared.

They also asserted that in 1916 a total of 110 indictments were returned by grand juries for liquor law violations, while the highest number of indictments in any one year, under the 1933 act, was 17—of which number 16 were for violations by persons licensed to sell beer only.

Point To Temptations
"Under the 1894 law," the attorneys declared, "there were so many places licensed to sell liquor that it was impossible for many of them to be financially successful, with the result that a large majority were subjected to the temptation to sell after hours and on Sundays, and to sell to minors and habitual drunkards."

Backed By Others
Cromwell is said to be backed in the litigation by the Allegheny County League for Equal Rights, which includes a number of men who have been unable to obtain liquor licenses in recent years. The Allegheny County Retail Liquor Dealers' Association, on the other hand, has always opposed moves to have the 1933 act revised or tested in the courts.

Attorneys for Clerk Jackson, in their answer to Cromwell's petition for a writ of mandamus, declared that Section 2 of Chapter 5 of the 1933 session of the Legislature, in setting up the new liquor control law, specifically repealed the "saloon law" of 1894, and the clerk was again informed by the judge: "They are all gone—we have none to give."

He was granted a beer license, however, for the tavern.

Cromwell also sought at one time to obtain a Class C club license for the National Service Club at the Braddock Road location, but a remonstrance was filed, and no hearing was ever held on the request.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Keller, 205 Mary street, announce the birth of a son in Memorial hospital Saturday.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce A. Stark, Oldtown road, in Memorial hospital Saturday night.

The Rev. and Mrs. George Raymond Winters, Butler, Pa., announce the birth of a daughter in Allegheny hospital Saturday night. The Rev. Mr. Winters is a native of this city.

KINGWOOD ATHLETE KILLED INSTANTLY

Vaughn Shaffer, 17, a former football player on the Kingwood, W. Va., high school team, was killed instantly Friday on the West Virginia Northern railroad where he was working as a brakeman. He had been employed about a month.

Shaffer, a son of Ray Shaffer, one time local roadworker, was killed at Miller No. 3 mine about one mile south of the railroad shops in Kingwood, according to Prosecuting Attorney R. Doyne Halbritter, Sheriff Hobart Spidder, Corner H. Foster Hartman, and Deputy Sheriff Charles Klinger, who investigated.

Shaffer's death was the third accident reported on the railroad this year. Henry G. Riley was killed in January and George Pitt was badly injured several weeks ago. Shaffer was working on the night shift, placing empty cars at the mine, when the accident occurred. He lived with his mother, Mrs. Gail Shaffer, near Hoversville. He was born August 15, 1928.

Howard's Air Records Eyed By Edmondson

"Woody" Edmondson and his "clipping" monospace is out to steal Beverly "Bevo" Howard's national championship in low altitude and precision acrobatic flying when the two meet in Cumberland at the Junior Association of Commerce—Cumberland Airways air show at municipal airport, August 4.

According to a recent letter to members of the committee planning the Cumberland show, Edmondson points out that he has installed a more powerful engine in his plane since last meeting Howard in stiff competitive flying at Jacksonville, Fla., last month and hopes to take the first step in winning Howard's national championship from him at the Cumberland event.

The two flyers have met in several close competitions since the end of the war. Howard has managed to fly away with the honors and retain the national championship he has held for nearly a decade in each event.

Edmondson, who has placed a close second to Howard in the top air events in the nation, hopes to reverse the situation at the Cumberland show and from reports by those who have seen the flyers in action, a more powerful engine is all the Lynchburg, Va., flyer needs to grab the national crown from the veteran Howard.

Whether the actual National championship will be at stake in the Cumberland show is yet to be learned, but preparation for Edmondson is making for the event he apparently expects to make headlines in the country's top aviation magazines and newspapers with the intention of being rated the equal of, if not actually superior to Howard, when the national championship is again laid on the line.

Championship Isn't Sure
Whether the actual National championship will be at stake in the Cumberland show is yet to be learned, but preparation for Edmondson is making for the event he apparently expects to make headlines in the country's top aviation magazines and newspapers with the intention of being rated the equal of, if not actually superior to Howard, when the national championship is again laid on the line.

Authorities believed the Bethesda man was on his way to Youghiogheny forest, near Oakland, to visit his wife when his car collided with the truck driven by Andrew Jackson McDonald, Winchester, Va. The body has been taken to the home in Bethesda.

Edward H. Wolfe Heads Blacksmith Brotherhood

Edward H. Wolfe, Bedford road, was installed president of Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Council No. 4, International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers, in Pittsburgh, Pa., recently.

The position entitles the local man to a place on the executive board of System Federation No. 30 which comprises all non-operating railroad crafts.

Although his duties will take him over the entire B. and O. system, Wolfe's headquarters will remain in this city.

He has been an employee of the railroad here since 1928 and began as a blacksmith's apprentice. He was recording secretary of Local 32 of the union and a shop chairman on the third shift.

Stanley McLeod, about 23, who lives at Potomac Hollow, near Barton, will be questioned at the state attorney's office this morning concerning the breaking and entering of a home near Barton, Trooper First Class Harry Holinger, of the Maryland State Police reported.

Trooper Holinger said that McLeod had confessed and made restitution of a number of articles including some furniture, towels and a cedar chest from the home of Andrew Preston, R.F.D., Barton, over the weekend.

The theft was discovered after Preston, who had been visiting his wife, a patient in Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, returned to his home last night about 7 o'clock, the trooper said.

Wife Beater Receives Suspended Sentence

Walter Ravenscraft, 39, Midland, a former soldier, received a suspended sentence of six months from the Maryland House of Correction from Trial Magistrate Frank A. Perdue, Saturday, on a charge of assaulting his wife, Mrs. Doris Ravenscraft.

Mrs. Ravenscraft appeared in trial magistrate's court with a bruised jaw and other bruises, said her husband is a good provider and a good coal miner, but is unruly when under the influence of intoxicants. Testimony showed the man was arrested twice previously for assaulting his wife. Mrs. Ravenscraft is employed as a cook at Miners' hospital, Frostburg.

Magistrate Perdue suspended the sentence, he said, on condition that Ravenscraft refrain from the use of all intoxicants.

Soldier Is Held

Pvt. Stephen C. Long, Frostburg, is being held in the city jail for Maryland State Police. Trooper G. M. Rotruck, who apprehended Pvt. Long early yesterday morning, said the soldier overstayed his leave en route from Aberdeen Proving Ground to Camp Kilmer, N. J.

Will Receive Hearings

Homer Stierstoff, 28 Greene street, and Joseph Monnett, 88 Henderson avenue, will receive hearings in police court this morning on charges of making unnecessary noise on Virginia avenue. The motorcyclists were arrested at 9 p. m. yesterday by Officer Joseph Stitche.

Will Receive Hearing

Two local youths, one 14 and the other 15, arrested Saturday afternoon by city police on a charge of discharging firearms within the city limits were released in custody of their parents pending a hearing in juvenile court.

To Receive Hearing

James F. Martin, 513 East Oldtown road, will be given a hearing in police court this morning on a charge of careless driving. He was arrested yesterday at 1:45 a. m. by Officer P. M. Crabtree.

Geppert's Will Probated

The will of William L. Geppert, late managing editor of the Cumberland News, was admitted to probate Friday in orphans court. He left his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Ruth Hankey Geppert. She declined to be named executrix.

Telephone Company Honors Operator Who Died In Fire

A gold Vail Medal and $1000 have been posthumously awarded Mrs. Julia C. Berry, telephone operator who sacrificed her life that others might escape the smoke and flames during the LaSalle hotel fire, June 5, in Chicago. The awards, signifying superior courage, loyalty and devotion to duty, will be presented to her son, John Joseph Berry, 15, who was left on orphan by his mother's death.

Announcement of the award was made by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company following a meeting of the Bell System National Committee of Award for Theodore N. Vail Medal.

Mrs. Berry was alone at the switchboard on the second floor of the 22 story hotel when the fire started on the ground floor. When she was notified of the fire she called the fire department and then began calling room after room to warn hotel guests of the danger. She refused to leave until her job was completed and when the fire was extinguished she was found dead at her post.

Cumberland Platoon Is Making Progress At Parris Island

Platoon No. 164, as the Cumberland Marine Corps platoon is designated at Parris Island, S. C., is reported making excellent progress in its recruit training program.

The platoon has completed preliminary courses in first aid, marine corps history and traditions, military courtesy, nomenclature of the M-1 rifle, close order drill and bayonet practice.

This week, the platoon is on the rifle range. Marksmanship in the marines is a four-week basic course, and the platoon took basic training in the subject last week. The men will shoot over the small bore or .22 calibre course. The next two weeks will be spent on the "big range," shooting the record course. The last of the four weeks also includes firing the carbine, Browning automatic, anti-tank grenade and fragmentation hand grenade as well as the M-1.

Fulton Myers Drum Corps Has Heavy Summer Schedule

Fulton Myers Post No. 53, American Legion, drum corps, recently won prizes staged in Garrett, Rowell and Salisbury, Pa., according to Harry Fisher, director, yesterday as he announced the units schedule for the summer months.

Fisher said the junior drum major and majorettes have also been complimented upon their fine performance.

The corps is scheduled to appear in a number of public demonstrations including Saxton, Pa., July 18; Everett, Pa., July 24; Rockwood, Pa., July 25; Fairchance, Pa., July 25; McCoolie, July 25; Friendsville, July 28; Windber, Pa., August 9; Meyersdale, Pa., September 4.

Corriganville Legion Post Receives Charter

A new American Legion post was instituted as Corriganville last week when 28 members were initiated, officers installed and a temporary charter was presented. Designated as Corriganville Post No. 190, American Legion, the charter presentation was made by George Henderson, former Maryland Department commander.

Officers were installed by Frank Powers, Frostburg, Mountain district vice commander. A team from Port Cumberland Post No. 13, conducted the initiation and included Samuel A. Graham, post commander; Elmore F. Fleming, commander-elect; John R. Kelly, Paul C. Weismiller, and Raymond T. Farrell. Also attending were Thomas F. Conlon, Charles G. Smith, Russell C. Paupe, John Sloan, and Paul W. Weismiller.

Officers of the new post are James H. Thompson, commander; Joseph E. Garlitz, vice commander; James E. Thomas, adjutant and finance officer; Augustus C. Duckworth, historian; Henry J. Getson, sergeant at arms; Keith W. Phillips, chaplain; G. Chester DeHaven, service officer.

Mrs. William Myers Is Awarded Divorce

Wilhelmina Skidmore Myers, 31, Shaft, was granted a divorce Saturday in circuit court from William H. Myers, said to reside in Tennessee, after she testified that he "had girls in at least three states" while he was serving in the army.

Represented by Edward J. Ryan, the wife said they were married February 10, 1934, and lived together until February 28 this year. Under the decree, signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster, the wife is awarded the custody of their two children.

Mrs. Myers testified that her husband, while in the army, wrote to her asking that she get a divorce. She said he admitted having girls in Loneconing, Texas and Tennessee.

Two Building Permits Are Granted Here

Mark A. Schriver, 514 Broadway circle, secured a building permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to construct a one-story one-car garage on Lots 24 and 25 in Block 4 on Summit avenue at an estimated cost of $800. The building, which will measure 22 by 22 feet, will have a foundation and walls of concrete block and a composition single roof. Work will be done by the owner.

William L. Norwood, Zihlman way, secured a permit to build a five-room house on Lot 7, Zihlman way, at an estimated cost of $4,600. The brick structure will measure 22 by 24 feet and will be one and a half stories high, with a concrete block foundation and a composition shingle roof. Work will be done by Hayes Northcraft, from plans furnished by the owner.

Will Receive Hearing

James F. Martin, 513 East Oldtown road, will be given a hearing in police court this morning on a charge of careless driving. He was arrested yesterday at 1:45 a. m. by Officer P. M. Crabtree.

LISTEN WORLD

By ELSIE ROBINSON
(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

Independence day, I've written articles on that subject for over 30 years and each time I've done so I've for more said, disgusted and downright sore.

Fourth of July—that was the day on which we Americans proudly proclaimed our freedom to the world. Of course we weren't really free. No one ever is, for freedom only trips us our obligations, instead of diminishing them, and young, impoverished, ignorant America certainly had plenty of rugged going ahead.

But even if we weren't really free, we had something that made us feel free, that made us feel superior to all the other nations. We had the glorious, warming pride of working together for a noble cause. There were many details in the new government on which we did not all agree. But we did agree on those towering principles of democracy and unity which our founding fathers and their followers had vowed to serve.

"My Country, 'tis of thee,
"Sweet land of liberty—
Meaned something then—
Something that shot like flame through the veins of even the most stupid and penniless man. He himself might not amount to much. But he wasn't just one, lonely, weak man—not in this new America. He was thousands of men standing together, fighting together, giving their lives for the same cause.

Representative Beall Votes His Convictions

The passage by the House of the British loan by the margin of only sixty-four votes demonstrates to what extent our Representatives were divided over the question as to the wisdom of such a move, and justified to no small degree the reasons cited by Congressman J.
Glenn Beall for opposing the approval of the $3,750,000,000 credit to Great Britain. He refused to be stampeded by administration pressure groups into voting for it.

He admirably took the stand that "such power is not invested in Congress under the Constitution or by law," and pointed out that the best interests of the American taxpayer were not being served, inasmuch as those subject to taxation must be levied against to create the sum loaned because the United States does not have it. It can only be gotten, he further stated, by creating fiat money or by selling our bonds to our people, and if we do we must pay the interest on those bonds because the loan to Britain is interest free for five years. And under the terms of the loan agreement, he points out, Britain still need not pay any interest after that period unless she feels she is able to pay it. In other words, the loan is being made on Britain's own terms, contrary to the policy of our financial institutions in making loans to individuals, businesses and industry.

Rep. Beall's decision to oppose the loan was prompted further by the fact that Britain is not called upon to put up any security—"not even,"
the Sixth Congressional District congressman declares, "turning over any island defense bases." We heartily agree with his contention that the loan, if it was to be made at all, should have been on a business basis.

Rep. Beall is concerned over the fact that in making the loan the nation will be obliged to open its American ports to foreign products produced at low wages to the detriment of our laborers, agriculture and industry, and well he might be because it is of vital importance to every workingman.

We are of the belief that had
Mr. Beall felt Britain was in dire need of such financial help he would have supported it, providing the proper safeguards, such as collateral, had been made a condition for securing such a loan. He was not, however, of that belief, pointing out that statistics show unemployment is not severe in England, that exports during the first six months of this year exceeded the same period in 1938, and that the month of May, 1946 exceeded the same month in 1938, which was Britain's biggest year in exports. Further, Rep. Beall could not satisfy a contention that Britain was in such poor circumstances when he knew that at the time she was applying for the loan from the United States she was negotiating loans to other countries.
He also could not convince himself that England needed the loan when she already had received help to the extent of $1,125,000,000 from Canada, and had borrowed $450,000,000 from the American taxpayers—financed Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

In other words Rep. Beall is of the opinion America's true interests were not being properly protected in this deal, and the courage he displayed in voting his objections, and in casting his vote in support of those convictions, are just a few of the things to be admired in him.

Strawberries as big as golf balls are promised. And probably, adds the office pessimist, as expensive.

Receptive Powers To A Free Economy

Those in administration circles who have insisted that price controls should be continued without change are in a funk as a result of the new OPA bill. Even if the President signs it, there will be many dire prophecies from these sources on the consequence it will bring.

These predictions will not carry all the weight they might have had if similar forecasts emanating from the same sources had been borne out in the months since V-J Day. Late last summer, it will be remembered, government economists were fearful that reconversion and demobilization of the armed forces would produce widespread unemployment, they estimated that from eight to 10 million Americans would be jobless by last spring unless Congress accepted a comprehensive program offered by the President to prevent deflation.

This program met the approval of Congress only in part. Some of the Truman suggestions have been dropped as unworthy of consideration, others have been greatly altered, and still others are yet to be acted upon. But the result has not been catastrophic deflation. On the contrary, the census bureau reported the other day that in June employment rose to 56 million 740 thousand and that the number of unemployed was only two million 560 thousand.

Secretary Wallace, it is worth recalling, set certain goals for the country in a book, "Sixty Million Jobs." The nation should aim, said this planner, at between 56 million thousand and 57 million 500 thousand civilian jobs, although he estimated that even in a period of full employment there would be a million and a half out of work.
This objective might be achieved in four years if Congress appropriated the money, he intimated.

The fact that the nation is almost there after 19 months is an eloquent answer to those who doubted the recuperative powers of a free economy.

American Farmer Proves Resourceful

Plans of excellence are not being presented to anyone in these recession war times, but the midwestern war farmer deserves to have a rose pinned to the bib of his harvest overall. He has done a big job under handicaps that would have floored less resourceful souls.

Harvest came on him with a rush and it was a far bigger harvest than he anticipated. He didn't have any new tools to tackle the job with.
His equipment had been worn out, rebuild, reconditioned and just plain patched up. His combines were ready for the junk yard but he put together what he had, made a new part or detached one from an abandoned machine and went to work.
His trucks were wobbly, too, but he got by. His bin space was inadequate and some of his bins still bulged with bumper crops of other years. Much to his annoyance there was talk about the government taking half of his wheat at prices lower than he figured it was worth.

The meat shortage struck his table and he had to use his head and hands to keep his harvest assistants at work. Harvest assistants can't work on meatless meals.
His tractors were wheezy, but he has fixed internal combustion engines so long that he knows how to get one to run by waving a knifed piece of baling wire at it.

Today, in Oklahoma and Kansas, he can survey what he has done from the seat of his tractor drawing a gang plow about the stubble field from which he has gleaned much needed wheat and with the satisfaction of knowing that his resourcefulness and determination have again triumphed over what appeared to be a gigantic task and was.
If the nation today had the "get up and git" in its agricultural forces, most of its problems would be solved speedily.

Some Congressmen looked upon OPA as just one banned thing after another.

"George" Is Overworked

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
You know the familiar phrase, "Let George do it." In other words, pass on to the other fellow what you should do yourself. That is a habit that has fastened itself upon most of us. We want others to bear burdens and carry loads that distinctly belong to us.

The idea is all wrong. William James, in his wonderful book, "The Principles of Psychology," suggested that we should each do something we would rather not do—for no other reason than to train our wills to meet the unpleasant and the unexpected.

Nothing strengthens character more than to face all duties and emergencies with courage and acceptance, and to bear responsibility in good grace, and without complaint. That phantom "George" has enough work of his own to do. He's overworked as it is!

It takes long preparation, endless patience, and high resolves to meet the ever-increasing emergencies of life. We never know when we shall be called upon to perform greatly.
If we keep shifting to others what we should do ourselves, we are bound to be unfitted to cope with the big opportunities that are sure to show up later.

A better plan would be to help
"George" out, and thereby help him the better to serve himself and others. We owe more to others than we do to ourselves, as a rule.
Every kind and generous act reacts in our favor. We are our "brother's keeper" to that extent.

The big "George" of the world looms up right now. The great, intelligent nations of the world are forever trying to pass over to "George" the preservation of the liberties so dearly earned by themselves. "George" happens to be, in such a case, the weaker ones of the earth, or the ones who look to some other nation to do the rough job, or—perhaps this time "George" is the one who may do the big job himself! And then we may all be sorry!

At any rate, let each stand alone, if need be, determined to pass up nothing difficult simply because we are too busy. Time is running out, and "George" may be kidnapped and we shall be compelled to do his job—perhaps alone!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Inspiration of a Library."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

War Department Lax in Not Checking Rep. May;
Kentucky Solon Linked
With Relief Scandals; Dead Discovered on Charity Rolls.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 14.—If all the history of that fabulous character Andrew Jackson May of Kentucky and his family were compiled in one volume, it would make a novel more unbelievable than fiction.

The only other unbelievable thing is that grown men in the War Department with the responsibility of millions of lives on their shoulders should not have seen through the Congressman from Kentucky long ago. If they had read past references to May in the Washington Merry-Go-Round or kept the usual clipping morgue operated by any efficient newspaper, they would not today be so red-faced when called before the Mead Committee.

But they did not even bother to consult FBI files or the court records of the Justice Department. Instead, Secretary of War Patterson humbly went up to Congressman May's office when summoned. So did Patterson's aide, the present Undersecretary of War, Brig. Gen.
Kenneth Royall. In Washington, Cabinet members or sub-Cabinet members do not call on Congressmen; it's the other way around. Reason why the War Department chiefs groveled before May will be told later.

Before Secretary Patterson entered the War Department, he was a very able judge on the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals. Had he bothered to do a little checking on the Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee with whom he had to do so much business, he would have found a revealing record in the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The record would have shown that May's brother-in-law and cousin were sent to jail for relief frauds back in the old Civil War Administration days, and that May's political machine burned down the county courthouse in May's home town in order to destroy the relief records and prevent the conviction.
Patterson also would have discovered that 14 of May's friends and political supporters went to jail for relief frauds, and that May appeared as their attorney.

A Congressman is not supposed to take a case against the Federal Government. He is paid by the Federal Government and is supposed to be the servant of the Federal Government. Therefore, it is a penitentiary offense to profit from handling a case against the Federal Government. Perhaps the ebullient Andrew Jackson May got around this on the technicality that he did not profit. Anyway, he appeared in court shamelessly and brazenly to defend one of the worst relief frauds in U. S. history.

Furthermore, if the Mead Committee would dig into the files of the Post Office Department, they would find that May exerted all sorts of pressure to have the case dropped. He used his influence as a Congressman in exactly the same way he did on behalf of the Erie Basin war profiteers.

What happened was that, back in 1934, Harry Hopkins and his CWA staff found that in May's home town of Preston-burg and the surrounding county, 112 per cent of the people were on relief—in other words, more people than were in the county. May's industrial machine, led by his henchman, Judge Walt Stumbo, had even dug up hundreds of names of people later identified as buried in the cemetery.

May's brother-in-law J. D. Mayo, a grocer, was in on the racket. So was his cousin, Curtis W. May, who ran the Kreuger Baker and Grocery Company. Both went to jail. Mrs. Mayo, wife of May's brother-in-law, was in the County Relief Committee, while a niece also was employed there.

This was how the racket operated.
The County Relief Committee gave a relief certificate to an alleged needy person, who then took the certificate entitling him to $40 worth of groceries. The grocer gave him perhaps $5 in groceries and certified that he had received $40. Then the certificate was sent to CWA headquarters in Louisville at a net profit of $35, which was

U.S. Seizure Of Plants And Their Operation Raises Intricate Questions usually split between the grocer and the person on relief.

The situation was so scandalous that the Government discovered 22 sacks of mail sent to Louisville containing unhandled relief orders. In other words, they had merely been filled out and certified by grocers—including May's cousin and brother-in-law without even bothering to put the certificates in the hands of alleged relief recipients.

Since some of the alleged relief recipients were in the cemetery, this would have been difficult.
Others were mountain families who could not read and write and had to depend on the County Relief Committee to fill in the certificates.

After the FBI got into the case, the local relief crowd burned down the county courthouse to destroy the evidence, not realizing that sufficient records remained in Louisville to convict them. In the end, the Government had to resort to a mail fraud case, since the bogus relief certificates were sent through the mails. Twenty-seven May henchmen and relatives were indicted, with 16 finally going to jail, including the head of May's machine, Judge Stumbo.

Note—Reason Secretary of War
Patterson and Undersecretary Kenneth Royall were so obsequious to May was that he was scratching their backs while they were scratching his. Late in the war, Patterson moved heaven and earth to pass a compulsory labor bill conscripting all labor. May introduced this for him and pushed it through the House. It was killed in the Senate.
Royall also has favored more military control of the atom and May has carried the ball for him on this. He introduced the May Bill giving major atom control to the military and, more recently, has gleefully acquiesced in the sabotage of the Senate's Civilian Control Bill by the House Military Affairs Committee.

Why does the government "seize"
a plant when it wants to break a strike? Is it just to put a legal base under its exercise of authority?
Or, is it part of an obscure plot?

It is said that the constitutional provision against "involuntary servitude"—prevents the government from compelling a man to work for the profit of another man, but that "you can't strike against the government." Therefore, the government must "take over the plant" to make its authority stick.

This sounds phony to me. The government "operation" of a seized plant is a flimsy fiction. The plant is still private property, and is actually operated by the same personnel as before. But to maintain the fiction, Mr. Truman has demanded a bill whereby the government confiscates profit (if any!) while a plant is in its hands.

Fish In Its Case

Yet the workers are permitted to keep their wages! They work because it is profitable to them to do so. The government does not pay them nothing for working. Why fish in one case and fowl in the other?

The government can compel a man to serve on a jury in a damage suit to the advantage of some litig-ant. It can compel him to spend days in court as a witness in private law suits. A sheriff can compel bystanders to help catch the robber of a private bank, or a fire chief to help put out a fire whether the building in the city hall or a private home.

No, it is ridiculous that our great big government is helpless to act unless it seizes something. Seizure is wholly unnecessary to the exercise of government power. The true explanation for this seizure business—unknown until a few years ago—lies elsewhere.

It is New Deal Socialist technique to "condition" the thinking of the people to the idea of government management of private business. There can, I think, be no honest rebuttal of this. Some six years ago the National Resources Planning Board, headed by Frederic
A. Delano, uncle of Franklin Dem.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 14 (CP)— Capitol Hill insiders are willing to bet that the current war profiting investigation by the committee headed by Senator James Mead (D) of New York will not develop facts sufficient to warrant criminal prosecution.

Before the start of open hearings —which brought the name of Rep.
"Andy" May (D) of Kentucky, House military affairs committee chairman, into the proceedings—the Mead committee went over the whole case in private sessions.

Senator Mead declared that the activities of the three Illinois companies and their subsidiaries was "war profiteering at its worst."
Those who are supposed to be "in the know," however, say that nothing was found which would support a criminal indictment.

It was easy to understand the indignation of senators and congressmen when they learned that war department officials had been recording their telephone conversations on behalf of constituents or friends looking for war contracts.

Most congressmen had been on the telephone at one time or another for this purpose.
Insiders say that "Andy" May didn't make the only congressional telephone call to the sprawling war department in the hectic days when billions were being spent for defense.

There is bad news today for the outdoors-type vacationist who wants to fish, go hunting, play golf, tennis or baseball during his vacation this year.

There will be slim pickings in sports equipment for the remainder of the year because of the wave of strikes which interrupted the reconversion program this spring.
Most sports supplies require steel in their construction. Steel is still on the shortage list as far as allocated stocks for recreational purposes is concerned.

"IT SAYS HERE"

Now that the war is over and all travel restrictions lifted, Americans are once again hitting the highways on a scale indicating the biggest vacation boom in history.
There's nothing like discovering your own country . . . the rivers, the mountains, the grandeur of the sun setting behind a billboard . . .
Yesir, travel broadens one . . .
And I've got the guide to prove it.

The national parks expect a peak year this season and it seems everyone is heading west. When I was in Cleveland, people used to tell me, "Go West, young man" . . .
The rent wasn't paid, so I did. But what I'd like to know is where do the young women go?
The best advice I could give you travelers is to make sure your car is in good mechanical condition before venturing on a long journey.
I'm an experienced traveler, but I've had some unfortunate experiences, myself, due to negligence.
One time my car broke down in Arizona and I had to go the rest of the way by mule . . . I sure got my "kicks on route #66!"

So, if you're planning to travel the highways and byways of this beautiful country of ours this summer, be sure to let me know and I'll give you some helpful hints . . .

Among the other critical items which would ordinarily go into sports equipment are bamboo for fishing poles, lead for ammunition, natural rubber for golf balls and leather for footballs.

Although the news for this year is bad, the government believes that by next summer there ought to be complete and adequate stocks in sports supply stores.

Which doesn't help the 1946 va-cationer much but it's something to look forward to, anyway.

The withdrawal of nearly a billion and a half dollars in federal food subsidies with the expiration of OPA gives farmers what agricultural observers consider a legitimate demand for somewhat higher prices on such farm items as milk, butter, cream, beef and the like.

Farm sources point out that, in many cases, the government had promised increased prices to farmers in the event that price controls were removed.

Some of these increases have already been applied, particularly on milk prices.

Farm officials in Washington believe that the increases will not be large. There is belief that they will result in the availability of more dairy products and milk than the consumer has received in many months.

This was born out by the rush of cattle to market in Chicago when prices first climbed above OPA ceilings. This rush will mean that Mr. and Mrs. America will get more steaks, roasts and chops—at higher prices.

Cattle dealers argue that retail meat prices will slacken off as the supply catches up with the tremendous demand for these products.
Best bet for housewives: Watch your butcher shop for the expected flood of meat in the weeks just ahead with all types of cuts—high or low grade — in the butchers' coolers.

Representative Beall Votes His Convictions

The passage by the House of the British loan bill, the margin of only four votes demonstrates to what extent our Representatives were divided over the question as to the wisdom of such a move, and justified to no small degree the reasons cited by Congressman J. Glenn Beall for opposing the approval of the $5,000,000 credit to Great Britain.

Beall's refusal to be stampeded by administration pressure groups into voting for it. He admirably took the stand that "such power is not invested in Congress under the Constitution or by law," and pointed out that the best interests of the American taxpayer were not being served, inasmuch as those subject to taxation must be levied against to create the sum loaned because "the United States does not have it. It can only be gotten, he further stated, by creating fiat money or by selling our bonds to our people, and if we do we must pay the interest on these bonds because the loan to Britain is interest free for five years. And under the terms of the local agreement, he points out, Britain still need not pay any interest after that period unless she feels she is able to pay it. In other words, the loan is being made on Britain's own terms, contrary to the policy of our financial institutions in making loans to individuals, businesses and industry.

Rep. Beall's decision to oppose the loan was prompted further by the fact that Britain is not called upon to put up any security—"not even," the Sixth Congressional District congressman declared, "turning over any island defense bases." We heartily agree with his contention that the loan, if it was to be made at all, should have been on a business basis.

Rep. Beall is concerned over the fact that in making the loan the nation will be obliged to open its American ports to foreign products produced at low wages to the detriment of our laborers, agriculture and industry, and well he might be because it is of vital importance to every workingman.

We are of the belief that had Mr. Beall felt Britain was in dire need of such financial help he would have supported it, providing the proper safeguards, such as collateral, had been made a condition for securing such a loan. He was not, however, of that belief, pointing out that statistics show unemployment is not severe in England, that exports during the first three months of this year exceeded the same period in 1935, and that the month of May, 1946 exceeded the same month in 1938, which was Britain's biggest year in exports. Further, Rep. Beall could not satisfy a contention that Britain was in such poor circumstances when he knew that at the time she was applying for the loan from the United States she was negotiating loans to other countries.

He also could not convince himself that England needed the loan when she already had received help to the extent of $1,125,000,000 from Canada, and had borrowed $450,000,000 from the American Lend-Lease Administration. Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

In other words, Rep. Beall is of the opinion America's true interests were not being properly protected in this deal, and the courage he displayed in voting his objections, and in casting his vote in support of those convictions, are just a few of the things to be admired in him.

Strawberries as big as golf balls are promised. And probably also the office pessimist, as expensive.

Receptive Powers To A Free Economy

Those in administration circles who have insisted that price controls should be continued without change are in a funk as a result of the new OPA bill. Even if the President signs it, there will be many dire prophecies from these sources on the consequences it will bring.

These predictions will not carry all the weight they might have had if similar forecasts emanating from the same sources had been borne out in the months since V-J Day. Last summer, it will be remembered, government economists were fearful that reconversion and demobilization of the armed forces would produce widespread unemployment; they estimated that from eight to 10 million Americans would be jobless by last spring unless Congress accepted a comprehensive program offered by the President to prevent deflation.

The program met the approval of Congress only in a small part. Some of the Truman suggestions have been dropped as unworthy of consideration, others have been greatly altered, and still others are yet to be acted upon. But the result has not been catastrophic deflation. On the contrary, the census bureau reported the other day that in June employment rose to 56 million 740 thousand and that the number of unemployed was only two million 560 thousand.

Secretary Wallace, it is worth recalling, set certain goals for the country in a book, "Sixty Million Jobs." The nation should aim, said this planner, at between 56 million, 500 thousand and 57 million 500 thousand civilian jobs, although he estimated that even in a period of full employment there would be a million and a half out of work. This objective might be achieved in four years if Congress appropriated the money, he insisted.

The fact that the nation is almost there after 10 months is an eloquent answer to those who doubted the recuperative powers of a free economy.

American Farmer Proves Resourceful

Plants of excellence are not being presented to anyone in these recessionary times, but the midwestern wheat farmer deserves to have a rose pinned to the bib of his harvest overalls. He has done a big job under handicaps that would have floored less resourceful souls. Harvest came on him with a rush and it was a far bigger harvest than he anticipated. He didn't have any new tools to tackle the job with. His equipment had been worn out, rebuilt, reconditioned and just plain patched up. His combines were ready for the junk yard but he put together what he had, made a new part or detached one from an abandoned machine and went to work. His trucks were wobbly, too, but he got by. His bin space was inadequate and some of his bins still bulged with bumper crops of other years. Much to his annoyance there was talk about the government taking half of his wheat at prices lower than he figured it was worth.

The meat shortage struck his table and he had to use his head and hands to keep his harvest assistants at work. Harvest assistants cannot work on meatless meals. His tractors were wheezy, but he has fixed internal combustion engines so long that he knows how to get one to run by waving a kinked piece of baling wire at it.

Today, in Oklahoma and Kansas, he can survey what he has done from the seat of his tractor drawing a gang plow about the stubble field from which he has gleaned much needed wheat and with the satisfaction of knowing that his resourcefulness and determination have again triumphed over what appeared to be a gigantic task and was. If the nation today had the "get up and git" in its industrial ranks that is present in its agricultural forces, most of its problems would be solved speedily.

Some Congressmen looked upon OPA as just one banned thing after another.

"George" Is Overworked

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

You know the familiar phrase, "Let George Do It." In other words, pass on to the other fellow what you should do yourself. That is a habit that has fastened itself upon most of us. We want others to bear burdens and carry loads that distinctly belong to us.

The idea is all wrong. William James, in his wonderful book on psychology, suggested that each of us should each day do something we would rather not do—for no other reason than to train our wills to meet the unpleasant and the unexpected.

Nothing strengthens character more than to face all duties and emergencies with courage and acceptance, and to bear responsibility in good grace, and without complaint. That phantom "George" has enough work of his own to do. He's overworked as it is.

It takes long preparation, endless patience, and high resolves to meet the ever-increasing emergencies of life. We never know when we shall be called upon to perform greatly. If we keep shifting to others what we should do ourselves, we are bound to be unfitted to cope with the big opportunities that are sure to show up later.

A better plan would be to help "George" out, and thereby help him the better to serve himself and others. We owe more to others than we do to ourselves, as a rule. Every kind and generous act reacts in our favor. We are our "brother's keeper" to that extent.

The big "George" of the world looms up right now. The great, intelligent nations of the world are forever trying to pass over to "George" the preservation of the liberties so dearly earned by themselves. "George" happens to be, in such a case, the weaker ones of the earth, or the ones who look to some other nation to do the rough job, or—perhaps this time "George" is the one who may do the big job himself! And then we may all be sorry!

At any rate, let each stand alone, if need be, determined to pass up nothing difficult simply because we are too busy. Time is running out, and "George" may be kidnapped and we shall be compelled to do his job—perhaps alone!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Inspiration of a Library."

GIVES CRASH VIEWS

THE WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

War Department Lax in Not Checking Rep. May; Kentucky Solon Linked With Relief Scandals; Dead Discovered on Charity Rolls.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 14.—If all the history of that fabulous character Andrew Jackson May of Kentucky and his family were compiled in one volume, it would make a novel more unbelievable than fiction.

The only other unbelievable thing is that grown men in the War Department with the responsibility of millions of lives on their shoulders should not have seen through the Congressman from Kentucky long ago. If they had read past references to May in the Washington Merry-Go-Round or kept the usual clipping morgue operated by any efficient newspaper, they would not today be so red-faced when called before the Mead Committee.

But they did not even bother to consult FBI files or the court records of the Justice Department. Instead, Secretary of War Patterson humbly went up to Congressman May's office when summoned. So did Patterson's aide, the present Undersecretary of War, Brig. Gen. Kenneth Royall. In Washington, Cabinet members or sub-Cabinet members do not call on Congressmen; it's the other way around. Reason why the War Department chiefs groveled before May will be told later.

Before Secretary Patterson entered the War Department, he was a very able judge on the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals. Had he bothered to do a little checking on the Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee with whom he had to do so much business, he would have found a revealing record in the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The record would have shown that May's brother-in-law and cousin were sent to jail for relief frauds back in the old Civil War Administration days, and that May's political machine burned down the county courthouse in May's home town in order to destroy the relief records and prevent the conviction. Patterson also would have discovered that 14 of May's friends and political supporters went to jail for relief frauds, and that May appeared as their attorney.

A Congressman is not supposed to take a case against the Federal Government. He is paid by the Federal Government and is supposed to be the servant of the Federal Government. Therefore, it is a penitentiary offense to profit from handling a case against the Federal Government. Perhaps the ebullient Andrew Jackson May got around this on the technicality that he did not profit. Anyway, he appeared in court shamelessly and brazenly to defend one of the worst relief frauds in U. S. history.

Furthermore, if the Mead Committee would dig into the files of the Post Office Department, they would find that May carried all sorts of pressure to have the case dropped. He used his influence as a Congressman in exactly the same way he did on behalf of the Erie Basin war profiteers.

What happened was that, back in 1914, Harry Hopkins and his CWA staff found that in May's home town of Prestonburg and the surrounding county, 112 per cent of the people were on relief—in other words, more people than were in the county. May's industrious machine, led by his henchman, Judge W. H. Stumbo, had even dug up hundreds of names of people later identified as buried in the cemetery.

Not-Reason Secretary of War Patterson and Undersecretary Kenneth Royall were so obsequious to May that he was scratching his back while they were scratching his. Late in the war, Patterson moved heaven and earth to pass a compulsory labor bill conscripting all labor. May introduced this for him and pushed it through the House. It was killed in the Senate.

Royall also has favored more military control of the atom and May has carried the ball for him on this. He introduced the May Bill giving major atom control to the military, and more recently, has gleefully acquiesced in the sabotage of the Senate's Civilian Control Bill by the House Military Affairs Committee.

The situation was so scandalous that the Government discovered 22 sacks of mail sent to Louisville containing unhandled relief orders. In other words, they had merely been filled out and certified by grocers—including May's cousin and brother-in-law without even bothering to put the certificates in the hands of alleged relief recipients.

Since some of the alleged relief recipients were in the cemetery, this would have been difficult. Others were mountain families who could not read and write and had to depend on the County Relief Committee to fill in the certificates.

After the FBI got into the case, the local relief crowd burned down the county courthouse to destroy the evidence, not realizing that sufficient records remained in Louisville to convict them. In the end, the Government had to resort to a mail fraud case, since the bogus relief certificates were sent through the mails. Twenty-seven May henchmen and relatives were indicted, with 14 finally going to jail, including the head of May's machine, Judge Stumbo.

No, it is ridiculous that our great government is helpless to act unless it seizes something. Seizure is wholly unnecessary to the exercise of government power. The true explanation for this seizure business—unknown until a few years ago—lies elsewhere.

It is New Deal Socialist technique to "condition" the thinking of the people to the idea of government management of private business. The can I think be no honest rebuttal of this. Some six years ago the National Resources Planning Board, headed by Frederic A. Delano, uncle of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, proposed "Extension and new forms of joint private and governmental partnership through use of mixed incorporations," i. e., companies whose board of directors include political appointees.

Congress Denied It Funds

Congress refused to appropriate to continue N. R. P., but its personnel found new jobs in government departments where their ideas are being pushed, as moles work under the sod and the dew, waiting the Marxist Day.

Is this what the fathers and mothers of the boys who died to end Hitlerism really want? I doubt it. But that the whole idea is taken out of the Nazi book is beyond question.

If you are interested in preserving freedom here in America, one of the best dollars you could ever spend would be to buy the book "How Nazi Germany Has Controlled Business," published by the Brookings Institution, 722 Jackson Place, Washington, D. C. I quote, "All major decisions required for the conduct of business are imposed by government directives. . . . The German businessman is manipulated like a marionette by other hands. . . . Total regulation has done a job equivalent to nationalization. . . . Private enterprise is reduced to a meaningless legal concept." I recommend it to all citizens—labor leaders especially.

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS ARE AUTHORIZED IN WEST VIRGINIA

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 14.—(AP)—West Virginians in 11 of the state's 55 counties have voted extra taxes upon themselves in order to raise $10,500,000 in the next three years for school construction or other educational improvements, a survey by the state education association showed today.

The report, made public by SEA Executive Secretary Phares E. Reeder, said that approximately $7,500,000 will be used for new construction and to renovate and repair existing buildings, with the remainder for improvement in the educational program, including teacher salary increases in some counties.

Reeder said that property levies yielding a total of $2,100,000 a year for the next three years were passed in special elections during the 1945-46 school year by Fayette, Jackson, Jefferson, Kanawha, Mercer, Monongalia, Roane, Tyler, Wirt, Wood and Wyoming counties.

In addition, five of the counties—Fayette, Jackson, Roane, Wood and Wyoming—passed bond issues to raise a total of $4,200,000. Pointing to SEA-computed figures showing that 82 per cent of the people voting in the elections approved the extra levies, and that bond issues were approved by 81 per cent of the voters, Reeder said: "It appears that the people are willing to foot the bill for school improvements."

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENTS ARE AUTHORIZED IN WEST VIRGINIA

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 14.—(AP)—West Virginians in 11 of the state's 55 counties have voted extra taxes upon themselves in order to raise $10,500,000 in the next three years for school construction or other educational improvements, a survey by the state education association showed today.

The report, made public by SEA Executive Secretary Phares E. Reeder, said that approximately $7,500,000 will be used for new construction and to renovate and repair existing buildings, with the remainder for improvement in the educational program, including teacher salary increases in some counties.

Reeder said that property levies yielding a total of $2,100,000 a year for the next three years were passed in special elections during the 1945-46 school year by Payette, Jackson, Jefferson, Kanawha, Mercer, Monongalia, Roane, Tyler, Wirt, Wood and Wyoming counties.

In addition, five of the counties—Payette, Jackson, Roane, Wood and Wyoming—also passed bond issues to raise a total of $4,200,000.

Pointing to SEA-computed figures showing that 82 per cent of the people voting in the elections approved the extra levies, and that bond issues were approved by 81 per cent of the voters, Reeder said: "It appears that the people are willing to foot the bill for school improvements."

Fourth Child Dies From Frederick Fire
FREDERICK, Md., July 14. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Snyder were notified last night of the death of their son, James Henry Snyder, 15, from third-degree burns incurred in a June 3 fire that also claimed the lives of a baby brother and two young sisters.

Police attributed the blaze to a can of kerosene they said James threw on an open fire in the Snyder home. Errol, 2, Lisa Jane, 3, and Peggy Marie, 4, were trapped in the house and burned to death. Their six brothers and sisters, however, managed to escape. James died Friday.

Both parents were away from home at the time.

One of the five surviving brothers and sisters still is in the Frederick City hospital with third-degree burns.

Mrs. Mary McGuire Dies
Mrs. Mary Mattingly McGuire, R. N., died Saturday in Troy, N. Y. Mrs. McGuire was born in Mt. Savage, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mattingly. She was a graduate of St. Patrick's school and of Allegany hospital school of nursing. She accepted a position at the Troy City hospital 12 years ago and was working there when she was taken ill several weeks ago.

Surviving are her husband, John J. McGuire; four sisters, Mrs. Angela Miller, Mrs. Clara Cookerly, Mrs. Katherine E. Madden and Mrs. Dorothy Blake, Cumberland; two brothers, Joseph S. Mattingly and Alex F. Mattingly, Cumberland; four stepchildren and a number of nieces and nephews.

A requiem mass will be said at 9 o'clock tomorrow (Monday) morning in Troy and the body will arrive in Cumberland Tuesday morning and will be taken to the home of Mrs. Miller, 642 N. Mechanic street, where friends will be received Tuesday afternoon and evening.

The funeral will leave the Miller home at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning and interment will be in St. Patrick's cemetery, Mt. Savage.

Jackie Walsh Is Hurt
Jackie Walsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Walsh, received a back injury when the merry-go-round broke down at the carnival being held in Muller's park under the sponsorship of the Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Department. Something apparently went wrong with the motor of the ride, causing the operating cylinder to jerk suddenly several times.

The Walsh boy and one or two other youngsters were thrown from the horses on which they were riding, but the other boys were not hurt. The Walsh boy will be taken to the hospital.

Proctor Kildow Legion Post Elects Turner

Oakland Legion Post Selects Officers For Ensuing Year

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, July 14.—Paul Turney was elected commander of Proctor Kildow Post No. 71, American Legion, at the regular meeting in the Legion home.

Others elected included Robert Lohr, first vice-commander; Irvin R. Rudy, second vice-commander; Edward P. Kahl, adjutant; A. Claude Stanton, finance officer; James Hesen, service officer; Mrs. Esther Browning, historian; Earl Wolf, chaplain; Earl Selders, sergeant-at-arms; Neil C. Friley and Stuart P. Hamill, Jr., were named on the executive committee.

Delegates to the state convention, to be held in Cumberland August 14 to 17, include Edward P. Kahl, Paul Turney, A. G. Hesen, Robert Lohr, Earl Selders, I. R. Rudy, Jr., Claude Stanton and James Hesen. The membership in the local post now totals 283.

To Compile War History

The Garrett County Historical Society has agreed to co-operate in the collection of World War II records for this county. It was announced this week by Bernard I. Gonder, president of the local organization, and Dr. Nelson B. Larson, director of the Maryland War Records division.

Questionnaires will be mailed out within a few weeks. Completion of the questions will show both the contributions of the county and the effects of the war upon the county's normal activities.

An act of the general assembly authorized the board of public works to collect, compile and publish the records of all residents of Maryland who served in the armed forces or in any agency which was affiliated with the armed forces.

Educators Meet
A two-day conference for educational men of the state was concluded Friday at the New Germany recreation area. Plans were discussed to develop a program for returning veterans and the re-employment of civilian personnel from the war industries.

Joseph F. Kaylor, state forester, and William H. Johnson, district forester, acted as hosts.

The group also discussed the bill now pending in congress, which, if passed, would allocate $368,000 to Maryland for adult education.

Frostburg Legion Tops Queen City

Score Of 7-4

Westvaco Beats Barton, 3-2; Centerville, Coney Cop Close Games

Washington rode over St. Louis for a double win 5-3, 4-2 with Rookie Gil Coe, adding the hit to the attack. Philadelphia split a pair with Chicago, taking the opener, 5-4, for Russ Christopher but bowing in the nightcap, 4-3 to Al Hollingsworth.

St. Louis crept to within 2½ games of Brooklyn by sinking the Dodgers twice, 5-3 and 3-1 in 12 innings.

Chicago also gained ground on the Brooklyn by whipping New York 7-4, in the day's only single contest.

Johnny Vandermeer racked up his fourth straight triumph and his first shutout of the year while hurling Cincinnati to a 3-0 edge over the Phillies in the first game, but Ken Rafensberger tamed the Reds in the second contest, 3-2, to square matters.

Rip Sewell topped the Boston Braves, 5-2, in the nightcap after Warren Spahn had hurled the Hub nine to a 4-1 victory over Pittsburgh in the curtain raiser.

Manager Enoch Price's American Legion tossed off of Parady Post, Frostburg, stayed right on the heels of the Blue-Setting Westvaco Club in the Bi-State League race by defeating the Queen City Brewers in a slow game yesterday at Stitches field by the score of 7 to 4.

The contest didn't get under way until 4:15 due to the ten-inning Moose-Edges contest which preceded it and when the second game of the dual bill was concluded it had consumed two hours and 56 minutes and was marked throughout by wrangling between the players and umpires.

Sammy DeLuca led Frostburg's 14 hit assault by connecting for four safeties while Leorchick, Frostburg's latest importation from Pennsylvania, held the Brewers to seven safeties, issued a record number of eleven passed balls, fanned eight. Both teams had fourteen runners stranded on the base.

Westvaco Wins Close One

Westvaco retained its two-game lead but had a real battle on its hands before it subdued a scrappy Barton team at the Westernport park by the score of 3-2.

Skinner Sullivan's outfield won the game in the eighth when Patterson singled, moved to second on an error and galloped home to break a 2-2 deadlock on Harold Robertson's sacrifice bunt.

Barton played the game under protest from the second inning after Umpire Marsh called a visiting player out for running out of line during a play at second base.

Al Thomas registered his fourth straight win of the season, letting Barton down with six hits, while Innes held the hard-hitting home team to four safeties. Gowans, of Barton, belted a home run in the fourth. The game was featured by the sparkling fielding of Haines, Gowans and Lashbaugh, of Barton, and Bill See and Robertson, of Westvaco.

High and "Lefty" Bill shared today's special collection taken up among the fans for players of the Westvaco team.

Reds Top Midland

Centerville defeated Midland's American Legion nine in an interesting game at Centerville, 4 to 2. Midland's downfall was brought about by its erratic play afield, the visitors having been charged with six errors.

Three errors and "Bud" Fisher's single gave the Reds a lead in the second and they scored again in the fifth when Roy Mickey tripled and came home on an overthrow. Midland counted twice in the fourth on Nauman's triple and a wild pitch by Bob Cook, Alvin Nave's error on Benner's third strike, an infield out and Roger's hit. Lefty Al Lauer held the Reds to six hits, while whiffed eight while Cook yielded five safeties and fanned six. No player obtained more than one hit.

Coney Edges Romney, 4-3

Claude Steele's stellar relief pitching and the hitting of Harry Seligman and Blaine McKenzie brought the Loaconing Republicans Club 4 to 3 triumph over the Romney American Legion at Loaconing.

Salada's second triple of the game followed by McKenzie's single through short scored the deciding run in the eighth after Coney had tied the score at 3-3 in the fifth. Coney's lead was held by Cameron's single and Salada's three-bagger drove in tallies.

Romney scored all its runs in the first inning. Coney marked up its first run in the third on Mel Broadwater's double and Dale Broadwater's single.

Steel pitched shutout ball in the last 2½ innings. He relieved Nail in the 7th after Frye had singled and Whitford doubled after one out and retired the side by fanning McElwee and Corbin. Salada banged two triples and a single. McKenzie got three hits and Woodson and Frye, of Romney, also hit safely. Jimmy Whitford, Romney runner, perished on the paths.

Frank Stranahan Wins Kansas City Golf Tournament

KANSAS CITY, July 14 (AP).—Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, puttered a field that included the best professionals in the country to finish first in the $30,000 invitational victory bond golf tournament with a 72-hole total of 274, fourteen strokes under par. Stranahan cracked par by three strokes with 31-38-69 on his final round today.

Stranahan's victory marked the first time an amateur has won a major open tournament since November, 1945, when he whipped the field in the Durham, N. C., open.

The young Ohioan was one stroke better than Johnny Bulla of Chicago and two under pre-tournament favorite Byron Nelson of Toledo, veteran Jim Hines of Chicago and Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Sanford, Me. Nelson, Hines and McSpaden all had 276.

For his victory amateur Stranahan received a trophy.

First money of $25,000 went to Bulla. McSpaden, Nelson and Hines each received $14,333.

It took a 287 over par for the 72 holes, to get a chunk of the prize money, which was split 25

Earl Browder To Be Guest On Meet The Press

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK, July 14.—Meet the Press continuing on Monday nights at 9:30 for one more broadcast, will have Earl Browder as its guest. The former Communist party candidate for president has recently returned from a visit to Russia. Next week the program will go back to Friday nights, the schedule insists.

Spotlight bands, having dropped its sponsor for an eight week vacation period, will continue on MBS at its regular three-night 8:30 time under auspices of the U. S. Army's recruiting drive. The same orchestra will perform, Guy Lombardo having the Monday night assignment.

Married for Life having disappeared from the MBS schedule at 9:30 a. m., that half-hour five times a week is being turned over to a couple of musical features. At 9:30 will be Bobby Norris and his singing strings from Poston. The other half at 9:45 introduces the Jackie Hill show including Jackie's Baritone from St. Louis as well as an instrumental trio and a vocal group.

Another MBS change brings the Tommy Dorsey playhouse off the Friday list to 9 p. m. Mondays. The program is to originate out of Hollywood.

Question for America, ABC discussion series, now is at 9 p. m. or least so the schedule says, after a shift up from 9:30.

Benny Goodman's program advisors say his 8:30 piece on NBC is to contain some classical music.

Stores Sign Contracts

The Noble Shoe Store and the Peoples Clothing Store have signed contracts with Local 664, Retail Clerks Union, William R. McGinnis, international representative, announced yesterday. Provisions for wage increase and vacations are included in the agreements, he added. Contract negotiations are under way with eight other downtown stores, two of them renewals, the union official said.

Source Of Pollution Killing Fish In Creek Still Undetermined

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden said yesterday he is taking samples of water from Wills creek to Baltimore, today to determine by analysis, the nature of the pollution which is killing fish in the stream. Hundreds of suckers were killed and scores of cat-fish made ill by an oil-like substance dumped in the water, sometime Thursday. Floating dead fish continued to attract attention along bridges over the stream yesterday. Minke made an investigation and contacted all possible sources of such pollution along the stream, but reached no definite conclusion. He termed the situation unfortunate, and expressed the view that the person or persons who dumped the liquid, evidently did not know that there are fish in Wills creek.

Local Persons Attend Commissioning Of Ship

A local man, Bos'n Mate 1-c Paul L. Mudge, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Raymond Reynolds, 420 Maryland avenue, is a member of the crew of the Destroyer USS. Rich and participated in the commissioning ceremony, July 3, at Orange, Texas. The destroyer was named for Lt. (J. G.) Ralph McMaster Rich, USNR, of North Dakota who was killed in an airplane crash in the Pacific area, June 16, 1942 while on active duty.

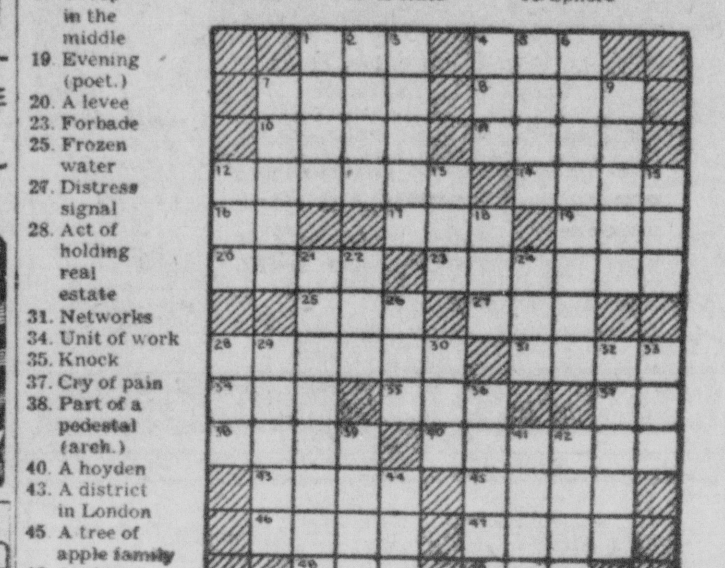

Bass Fishing Reported Exceptionally Good

Since the opening of bass fishing season here, numerous large catches have been reported, especially in Washington and Garrett counties. Joseph A. Minke, regional fish and game warden said last night. Deep Creek is proving to be an excellent fishing ground he indicated, and while he couldn't recall the name of the lucky angler, he said some game wardens had reported that one Deep Creek resident caught a bass this week, weighing six and three-quarter pounds. Several other catches weighing up to five pounds have also been reported.

In Memoriam

D. ORE-In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Benjamin DeVore, who passed away July 14th, 1938.

Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and true to the end of his days,
Sincere and true in his heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.

SALESMAN
One of the widest and largest national organizations is operating a division in Cumberland and has opening for three top-notch men. Good character, intelligence, energy and ambition to be successful are the requirements. We train you thoroughly, provide definite leads and give every needed cooperation. We want men who are looking for a successful lifetime position in a dignified and most worthy field. If you have real executive ability you can find your level with us. We have numerous opportunities. During 1945 a former N. C. County Superintendent of Schools earned over $5,000 in N. C. This was his first year with us. A former $35-per-week shoe clerk earned over $10,000 in N. C. A former school teacher earned $248 with us last week. Two were discharged because of their success. We offer a $140 per week in their initial training period with us. These records are open to anyone. We have numerous similar cases in various states. Our clientele is the finest. We require good representations. I will be in Cumberland within two weeks to interview applications. If you are appointed, I will personally demonstrate before you how simple it is to earn upwards from $150 per week with us. Please write,

Plans Unfolding For Big Legion Convention Here

Expect 1,500 Veterans For State Conclave August 14 to 17

When the American Legion, reinforced by hundreds of veterans of World War II, hold their first post-war "Victory" convention here August 14, 15, 16 and 17, the facilities of Cumberland will be taxed to the limit, Vincent P. Ingram, convention chairman, predicted last night.

The foremost problem, that of housing 1,500 delegates will require all local hotel accommodations, all available private rooms and the hotel facilities as far west as Grantsville and as far east as Town Hill. Reservations may also be made in Bedford, Pa., and possibly in Keyser, W. Va., according to Robert C. Bowers, past commander and chairman of housing.

Plans had been considered to use sleeping cars on railroad sidings and in the yards here, but this idea has proven impractical, Bowers said, because of the cost involved, and the difficulty in arranging for water and for sewage disposal.

Reservations are already being made at hotels, and actual assignment of delegates to rooms in and about Cumberland will begin this week, Bowers declared.

State Army Headquarters Headquarters for this annual state convention will be the Maryland State Army, where all sessions will be held. The army here is one of two places in the entire state, where a convention as large as this can be accommodated. The other is the Baltimore Convention Center.

Members of the convention committee said yesterday "there aren't even enough chairs here for the affair." Arrangements have been made to rent chairs from a Baltimore chair rental firm.

Thomas F. Conlon, convention parade chairman, announced yesterday that several hundred invitations have been mailed for participation in the huge parade planned for August 18.

A total of $800 has been set aside for awards for drum and bugle corps and for bands. Conlon said the parade will form at 5 p. m. at the parade ground, and a reviewing stand will be built near the Second National bank, Baltimore street.

Out-of-town talent will be featured with fighters from stables at Morgantown and Washington, parties, parties.

National Director Will Speak At W.O.W. Class Initiation

Sterling C. Holston Will Be Guest Speaker Here Wednesday Night

Sterling C. Holston, Omaha, Neb., national treasurer and field director of Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, will be the guest speaker here Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. when Camp No. 6, Woodmen of the World, initiate a class of 35 new members.

The initiation will be in charge of Major Sebastian Spers, degree master and Capt. Virgil Welsh, Co. K, 103rd Regiment, Uniformed Rank, with Henry R. Payne, consul commander, presiding. Several visitors from other lodges in this area are expected.

Members of the new class include: Clement P. Boyer, Roy J. Krieger, John W. Jones, John Oliver Burns, Irvin W. Johnson, Lewis W. Valentine, Walter J. Jenkins, Jr., John I. Breighner, George A. Nail, Howard M. Andrews, Donald P. Renotas.

Archie R. Nelson, Clarence E. Burket, John Roland O'Brien, Arle E. Stein, Ralph E. Gray, Stanford W. Zollner, George V. Tucker, Marshall J. Deremer, Boyd A. Smith, Carlton R. Beckman, Roy Morral, Wade Morral.

Donald P. Orndorff, Donald R. McClellan, George E. Stafford, Paul E. Burton, B. Thomas, William A. Morral, Virgil G. Morgan, Walter B. Ridgely, Garland S. McDonald, John K. Hartell, Robert W. Haines, Amos E. DeHaven, Kenneth Hanel and Byron E. Roy.

Following the ceremony and meeting, a buffet supper will be served, in charge of Theodore Rose and John Mudge, members of the refreshment committee.

270 Participate In 45th Annual Program Of Local Council

Cumberland Council No. 566, Knights of Columbus, celebrating its 45th anniversary yesterday by attending mass, exemplifying the second and third degrees and honoring surviving charter members and candidates at a banquet last night in the council hall, North Mechanic street.

Sixty-five members made up the 1946 class and attended mass in the hall at 11 a. m. at St. Patrick's Catholic church. Yesterday at 2 p. m. the degree work was presented at SS. Peter and Paul hall, Fayette street.

At the banquet last night, which was attended by 270 members and guests, Grand Knight Edward A. Croswore delivered the address of welcome and presented the toastmaster, Frank A. Wolfenbarger.

Guest speakers included, Simon B. Stock, of Harrisburg, Pa., deputy of the 13th Pennsylvania district, who spoke on "The Meaning of Knighthood"; Frank A. Shillenberger, Baltimore, Maryland state deputy, who spoke "Columbianism"; Louis Amanto, who spoke for the class of 1946 and Joseph L. Mansfield, Westport, who spoke for the charter members.

Stanley Pretwell, Western Maryland district deputy and past grand knight of Cumberland council and Louis A. List, Baltimore, past district state deputy also spoke.

The council has 12 surviving charter members and the banquet was designed partly in their honor. All 12 were unable to attend. Croswore said last night, but besides Wolfenbarger and Mansfield, the following were guests, Bart J. Finnan, Joseph J. Ryland, Joseph C. Corrigan and William F. Kerber.

Music for the banquet was furnished by St. Mary's school orchestra and the Rev. Fr. Landrigan of St. Mary's Catholic church delivered the invocation.

MISS YOUNG RITES Funeral services for Miss Emma Jane Young, 76, who died Friday at her home on Route 4, Mexico, Pa., were conducted yesterday at 3:30 p. m. at the home of her sister, Mrs. Louella Golden, with whom she made her home.

The Rev. Louis Chastain, pastor of Cresapton Methodist church, officiated and was assisted by the Rev. John L. Vermilyea, pastor of Davis Memorial Methodist church. Interment was in Davis Memorial cemetery. Pallbearers were Homer Sellers, Raymond Lapp, Melvin Lemon and Robert Wilber and Charles Rice.

PAUL CESSNA RITES Funeral services for Paul G. Cessna, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lear Cessna, 14 Massachusetts avenue, who died Friday at his home, were conducted yesterday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of his mother, Mrs. H. H. Hixon, T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, officiated and interment was in Trinity Lutheran cemetery. Pallbearers were Robert Cessna, Frank Hausman, Donald Fisher, Robert Cessna, Jr., Richard Riley and Joseph Riley.

HUBERT ELRIK MT. SAVAGE, July 14—Hubert Elrik, 63, laborer, died at his home here last night at 5:30 p. m. today. He had been in ill health since last November.

The man has been a local resident for the past five years, and was employed by Cumberland contractors as a laborer. He came here from West Virginia, where he formerly worked as a coal miner.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Annie Elrik and three sisters, Mrs. Emma Agleson, Ridgely, W. Va., Mrs. Annie Light, Thomas, W. Va., and Mrs. Linnie Taves, York, Pa.

MRS. ROBERT WHETSTONE Mrs. Josephine Louise Whetstone, 30, wife of Robert Henry Whetstone, 154 North Centre street, died yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Memorial hospital.

In failing health for some time, Mrs. Whetstone was rushed to the hospital at 7:50 p. m. for an injury to the left arm at the elbow suffered, he said, when he fell while playing. Attached said a splint was applied and that the lad is to return today for X-rays.

Mrs. Julia Nelson, 30, wife of Horan Nelson, 30, Bedford road, was treated in Allegheny hospital yesterday at 4 p. m. for a right ankle injury suffered when she fell from a step at her home. X-rays will be taken today to determine the extent of her injuries.

Ronald Barb, 12, 307 Bellevue heights, was treated in the same hospital at 7:50 p. m. for an injury of the left arm at the elbow suffered, he said, when he fell while playing. Attached said a splint was applied and that the lad is to return today for X-rays.

SINGS IN DRAMA—George D. Truly, Froburg, is singing this summer with the Westminster choir, which is providing the musical background for Paul Green's "The Lost Colony" at Roanoke Island, N. C. The choir sings old English anthems and carols, rearranged by Lamar Stringfield and Adeline McCall, of Chapel Hill, N. C. The play, performed five nights a week in a huge waterside theater, tells the story of Sir Walter Raleigh's attempt to colonize America.

Liquor License For New Lounge Is Protested

Several Technicalities Are Cited For Rejection Of Whetsell's Application

Louis Victor Connell, 56, chief clerk of the general trainmaster of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here, died suddenly yesterday morning about 6:30 o'clock at the home of his brother-in-law, William Yarnall, 209 Cecilia street, with whom he had made his home for the past twenty years.

Mr. Connell, known to his friends as "Vic", was hospitalized for three weeks in March after he became ill but had been in fairly good health until he was stricken by the health attack early yesterday morning.

He was a native of this city and a son of the late Thomas and Mary Murray Connell.

He was a veteran of World War I, serving in the army medical corps at Camp Meade. He began work for the B. and O. in 1917 and became a clerk. He had been chief clerk in the yardmaster's office for about 12 years.

Mr. Connell was a member of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, and of Cumberland Aerie No. 245, F. O. Eagles.

Surviving are three brothers, Jean, Arthur and William Connell, all of this city.

The body is at the Stein funeral home. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 9 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic church and interment will be in the church cemetery.

Request Rejection William A. Gunter and D. Lindsey Sloan, attorneys for the Cadillac owners, asked that the transfer application be rejected, charging that one of the men who signed Whetsell's application had already signed one during the current license year for the Alhambra Club of the city.

Edward Habebe, who operates a flower shop at 26 North Mechanic street, signed the two applications, the lawyers asserted, and this is a violation of the 1935 county liquor control act, which specifies that only an applicant may be signed by a person who lives or has property in the vicinity of the place to be licensed.

The attorneys also asserted that Paul Steinla, another of the signers, has a place of business at 218 South Mechanic street, "which is not in the vicinity of the place to be licensed."

Plan Two Entrances Attorneys for the Cadillac owners also charged that a permit for the alterations now being done by Whetsell and Cornish was granted by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, and that the permit so posted on the building indicates that the improvements contemplated include an entrance to the place on North Mechanic street, in addition to the Baltimore street entrance, and "no license for which is included in the application" to the Court for transfer of Whetsell's liquor permit.

Molinar and DeLuca assert they "are doing business" next door to the proposed new cocktail lounge, and are entitled to call these errors to the attention of the Court.

Whetsell, who was represented by Harry I. Stegmayer when he applied for transfer of his license, said he had hoped to open the new place in August, before the state convention of the American Legion opens here, and that "somebody" complained to the Civilian Production Administration that materials being used in remodeling were not acquired through "regular channels."

"We are using steel beams, which are not new, and some glass brick, all of which was obtained in a regular and legal manner," Whetsell said. He added that he is a veteran of World War I, was wounded in France, and "as a veteran, I am entitled to obtain such materials."

The OPA office at Philadelphia was advised of this fact, Whetsell said, and the work is being continued. He also asserted that attorneys for the Cadillac owners recently sent him a letter, in what he termed "an attempt to scare me," after work on "The Alibi" was started.

Girl Is Injured

A 5-year-old Springfield, W. Va., girl who was admitted to Memorial hospital at 8:30 p. m. yesterday for injuries sustained when she was hit by a car in Springfield, was in a satisfactory condition late last night.

The girl, Shirley May Frazier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Frazier, was treated for a fractured right leg, abrasions on the back and legs and contusions of the right side of the face.

Attached said the driver of the car, Herman G. Brant, 215 Arch street, reported the girl ran in front of the vehicle.

The Rev. John Stanley Grauel, radio commentator and writer, will speak at 8 p. m. today in "Ber Chayim Temple on the "Present Situation in Palestine."

Considered an outstanding authority on problems of current world interest, the Rev. Mr. Grauel comes here under the auspices of the Zionist Emergency Council of Western Maryland.

At noon today, the Rev. Mr. Grauel will speak at Frostburg State Teachers' college.

Rep. Beall Tells Why He Opposed Loan To Britain

Asserts Congress Lacks Authority To Tax American Citizens

Rep. G. Glenn Beall, of the Sixth Maryland district, who voted against the loan to Great Britain Saturday, in a statement issued over the weekend asserted he voted against the measure because "such power is not vested in Congress under the Constitution or by law."

Under terms of the bill, which the House passed July 13, the United States will lend Great Britain $3,750,000,000. The measure previously had passed the Senate and following passage by the House was sent to President Truman for his signature.

Rep. Roe Also Opposed

Also voting against the bill was Rep. Roe, of Maryland, and Rep. Bailey of West Virginia, both Democrats. Rep. Ellis, Republican, of West Virginia, also opposed the bill, while the following Democrats voted for it:

Baldwin, Sasser, Fallon and D'Alessandro, of Maryland; Randolph, Neely, Kee and Hedrick, of West Virginia.

In his statement to the local press, Rep. Beall declared: "When considering the proposed loan to Great Britain, I want to remember that I am representing the people of my district and all of the United States. I must do as I would if I were a bank official and the custodian of a trust fund. The money we are asked to lend is not mine. It is the money to be taken from the American taxpayers."

"In order to make a loan to Britain we must collect taxes from all people subject to taxation. Our government will then take the taxpayers' money and make an extension of credit or a gift to Britain. What power or authority does Congress have to tax the people and raise money for the purpose of extending credit, giving or loaning money to a foreign country? Such power is not vested in Congress under the Constitution or by any law."

Pays No Interest

"In the first place, the United States Government does not have $3,750,000,000. We can get it only by creating fiat money or by selling our bonds to our own people. If we do we must pay interest on those bonds. Great Britain pays us no interest for 5 years under the terms of this agreement and after 5 years she does not pay interest unless she feels like she is able to pay it. It is not a loan, it is a gift."

Branch chairmen of the Allegheny County Chapter American Red Cross, met last week with Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, chapter chairman. Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary and Mrs. Louise C. Dean, home service secretary, and heard reports of the three chapter officials on the 21st annual convention of Red Cross held in Philadelphia last month.

The three officials of the chapter were local delegates to the convention and attended a number of conferences and panel discussions at the conclave.

Mrs. Witherup said she was particularly impressed with the opening convention speech by Basil O'Connor, president. She said O'Connor gives the impression of being a business man who has a thorough knowledge of Red Cross and understands its problems and responsibilities.

Stress Accident Prevention Emphasis on the convention, the delegates reported, was placed upon the accident prevention program of Red Cross. Many facts and figures were presented showing the need for accident prevention in all phases of every-day life throughout the country.

It was recommended that an accident prevention committee be organized in every chapter and branch, with representatives from newspapers, radios, industries, schools, social agencies, Boy and Girl Scouts, city officials, civic service and patriotic clubs and women's clubs participating.

The chapter will be responsible, it was indicated, for developing community accidents surveys; acquainting the public with the findings; providing instructors with current and pertinent information; and numerous other phases of prevention and education.

Emphasis is to be placed upon the elimination of hazardous conditions in every community. An effort will be made to make home safety fashionable. Traffic safety will be emphasized.

An active Disaster committee, with able and interested persons as members, was also urged for every chapter. Emphasis was placed on the fact that "no one knows when disaster of one kind or another will strike a community," and Red Cross must be ready to give all forms of emergency assistance immediately. It was reported there were 250 disasters in 1945 in the United States.

The local delegates also attended panel discussions and conferences on "Fund Campaigns" and other subjects. Mrs. Witherup said it was outlined and emphasized that the Red Cross must maintain a large active organization working with the armed forces where occupation armies are serving. Red Cross also must continue to do a big job in service in the home communities, and work with veterans and their families.

This will require larger staffs of trained workers than were necessary in postwar years, and budgets will be larger than in post war membership drives.

The convention was not glamorized, as was the convention in 1941. Mrs. Witherup declared. She said the delegates, representing nearly all Red Cross chapters in the country were a tired people, listening attentively for the answers to some of their home-town problems, and for the task which lies ahead in postwar years. The exchange of ideas, she declared, gave a new insight into Red Cross, and awakened in the minds of delegates that there is still much work to be done.

Sees Ill Will Incurred "Such a gift to England would be the opening wedge into our pocket-books for all nations wanting to ask for a gift from the United States. England will neither pay the principal nor the interest and refusal to lend other countries would incur ill will."

"How could I vote for the loan of $3,750,000,000 to Britain and face the citizens of this country, the farmer, the home owner, the veteran who when they borrow money from the government or with government aid must give a mortgage on their farms or homes in order to be repaid."

Plans Unfolding For Big Legion Convention Here

Expect 1,500 Veterans For State Conclave August 14 to 17

When the American Legion, reinforced by hundreds of veterans of World War II, hold their first post-war "Victory" convention here August 14, 15, 16 and 17, the facilities of Cumberland will be taxed to the limit, Vincent P. Ingram, convention chairman, predicted last night.

The foremost problem, that of housing 1,500 delegates will require all local hotel accommodations, all available private rooms and the hotel facilities as far west as Grantsville and as far east as Town Hill. Reservations may also be made in Bedford, Pa., and possibly in Keyser, W. Va., according to Robert C. Bowers, past commander and chairman of housing.

Plans had been considered to use sleeping cars on railroad sidings and in the yards here, but this idea has proven impractical, Bowers said, because of the cost involved, and the difficulty in arranging for water and for sewage disposal.

Reservations are already being made at hotels, and actual assignment of delegates to rooms in and about Cumberland will begin this week, Bowers declared.

State Army Headquarters Headquarters for the annual state convention will be the Maryland State Army, where all sessions will be held. The army here is one of two places in the entire state, where a convention as large as this can be accommodated. The other is the Baltimore army.

Members of the convention committee said yesterday "there aren't even enough chairs here for the affair." Arrangements have been made to rent chairs from a Baltimore chair rental firm.

Thomas P. Conlon, convention parade chairman, announced yesterday that several hundred invitations had been mailed for participation in the huge parade planned for August 18.

A total of $960 has been set aside for awards for drum and bugle corps and for bands. Conlon said.

The parade will form at 6 p. m. at the army, and a reviewing stand will be built near the Second National bank, Baltimore street.

Arranged Boxing Show One of the entertainment features planned for the convention includes a boxing show at Mid-City Park, following the parade, Ingram said.

Out-of-town talent will be featured with fighters from states as far as Maryland and Washington, participating.

National Director Will Speak At W.O.W. Class Initiation

TO SPEAK HERE—Sterling C. Holston, Omaha, Neb., national treasurer and field director of Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, will speak at a meeting of Camp No. 6, Woodmen of the World here, Wednesday night following initiation of 38 candidates. (See story.)

K. Of C. Banquet Feles Surviving Charter Members

270 Participate In 45th Annual Program Of Local Council

Cumberland Council No. 566, Knights of Columbus, celebrated their 45th anniversary yesterday by attending mass, exemplifying the second and third degrees and honoring surviving charter members and candidates at a banquet last night in the council hall, North Mechanic street.

Sixty-five members made up the 1946 class and attended mass in a body at 11 a. m. at St. Patrick's Catholic church. Yesterday at 2 p. m. the degree work was presented by St. Peter and Paul hall, Fayette street.

At the banquet last night, which was attended by 270 members and guests, Grand Knight Edward A. Crookover delivered the address of welcome and presented the toastmaster, Frank A. Wolfenbarger.

Guest speakers included, Simon B. Stock, of Harrisburg, Pa., deputy of the 13th Pennsylvania district, who spoke on "The Meaning of Knighthood"; Frank A. Shillensberger, Baltimore, Maryland state deputy, who spoke "Columbianism"; Louis Amanto, who spoke for the class of 1946 and Joseph L. Mansfield, Westport, who spoke for the charter members.

Stanley Pretwell, Western Maryland district deputy and past grand knight of Cumberland council and Louis A. List, Baltimore, past district state deputy also spoke.

The council has 12 surviving charter members and the banquet was designed partly in their honor. All 12 were unable to attend, according to Joseph V. Burke, president.

Music for the banquet was furnished by St. Mary's school orchestra and Rev. Fr. Landrum of St. Mary's Catholic church delivered the invocation.

Union Council Seeks Governor's Aid To Help Check Rent Inflation

Western Maryland Industrial Union Council has sent a telegram to Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, urging that he use all his available powers to correct the rising rent prices here, and to help hold the line against rising rents, according to Joseph V. Burke, president.

At a meeting of the organization Friday night, members voted to contact the governor, after numerous reports were heard from members about the inflationary skyrocketing of local rents, Burke declared.

The union council's telegram to the governor reads: "Rents in Cumberland have been raised above all possible expectations. You are urged by the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council to use all of your available powers to correct this outrageous situation."

The council's action followed that of Mayor Thomas S. Post, who sent a similar telegram to the Governor on Friday when the mayor declared that rents in Cumberland "have reached the inflationary stage."

Prior to that the Western Maryland Labor Union Conference had wired the Governor asking him to fix rent controls by proclamation or to call a special session of the General Assembly to take action.

Several insurance men, who make a great many calls throughout town in the course of the week, reported yesterday that the rent picture here has become serious. One insurance man reported that he made five calls yesterday and that rents were reported hiked by five different families, all of them in hard-pressed circumstances.

Mrs. Julia Nelson, 36, wife of Herman Nelson, Route 3, Bedford road, was treated in Allegheny hospital yesterday at 6 p. m. for a right ankle injury suffered when she fell from a step at her home, X-rays will be taken today to determine the extent of her injuries.

Ronald Barb, 12, 307 Bellevue heights, was treated in the same hospital at 7:50 p. m. for an injury of the left arm at the elbow suffered, he said, when he fell while playing. Attached said a splint was applied and that the lad is to return today for X-rays.

Sterling C. Holston Will Be Guest Speaker Here Wednesday Night

Sterling C. Holston, Omaha, Neb., national treasurer and field director of Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society, will be the guest speaker here Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. when Camp No. 6, Woodmen of the World, initiate a class of 38 new members.

The initiation will be in charge of Major Sebastian Spers, degree master and Capt. Virgil Welsh, Co. K, 103rd Regiment, Uniformed Rank, with Henry R. Payne, consul commander, presiding. Several visitors from other lodges in this area are expected.

Members of the new class include: Clement P. Boyer, Roy J. Krieger, John W. Jones, John Oliver Burns, Irvin W. Johnson, Lewis W. Valentine, Walter J. Jenkins, Jr., John I. Breighner, George A. Nail, Howard M. Andrews, Donald P. Renotas, Arlie R. Nelson, Clarence E. Burdette, John Roland Otter, Arlie E. Stein, Ralph E. Gray, Stanford W. Zollner, George V. Tucker, Marshall J. Deremer, Boyd A. Smith, Carlton R. Beckman, Roy Morral, Wade Morral.

Donald P. Orndorff, Donald R. McClell, George E. Stafford, Paul E. Durr, Burton B. Thomas, William A. Morral, Virgil G. Morgan, Walter B. Ridgely, Garland S. McDonald, John K. Hartel, Robert W. Haines, Amos E. DeHaven, Kenneth Hansel and Byron E. Roy.

Following the ceremony and meeting, a buffet supper will be served, in charge of Theodore Ross and John Mudge, members of the refreshment committee.

L. Victor Connell, B. and O. Clerk, Dies Suddenly

Louis Victor Connell, 36, chief clerk of the general superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here, died suddenly yesterday morning about 6:30 o'clock at the home of his brother-in-law, William Yarnall, 209 Cecilia street, with whom he had made his home for the past twenty years.

Mr. Connell, known to his friends as "Vic," was hospitalized for three weeks in March after he became ill but had been in fairly good health until he was stricken by the fatal heart attack early yesterday morning.

He was a native of this city and was the late Thomas and Mary Murray Connell.

He was a veteran of World War I, serving in the army medical corps at Camp Meade. He began work for the B. and O. here as a caller November 24, 1907, and later became a clerk. He had been chief clerk in the railroad's office for about 12 years.

Mr. Connell was a member of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, and of Cumberland Aerie No. 245, P. O. Eagles.

Surviving are three brothers, Jean, Arthur and William Connell, all of this city.

The body is at the Stein funeral home. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 9 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic church and interment will be in the church cemetery.

MISS YOUNG RITES

Funeral services for Miss Emma Jane Young, 78, who died Friday at her home on Route 4, Mexico, Pa., were conducted yesterday at 3:30 p. m. at the home of her sister, Mrs. Louella Golden, with whom she made her home.

The Rev. Louis Chastain, pastor of Cresaptown Methodist church, officiated and was assisted by the Rev. John L. Vermilyea, pastor of Davis Memorial Methodist church. Interment was in Davis Memorial cemetery.

Funeral services were held for Mrs. Raymond L. Lapp, Edwin Lemon and Robert, Wilber and Charles Rice.

PAUL CESSNA RITES Funeral services for Paul G. Cessna, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cessna, 14 Massachusetts avenue, who died Friday at his home, were conducted yesterday at 2:30 p. m. at the home.

The Rev. Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, officiated and interment was in Trinity Lutheran cemetery, Parkersburg, where Robert Cessna, Frank Hausman, Donald Fisher, Robert Cessna, Jr., Richard Riley and Joseph Riley.

HUBERT ELRIK MT. SAVAGE, July 14—Hubert Elrik, 63, laborer, died at his home near here at 5:30 p. m. today. He had been in ill health since last November.

The man has been a local resident for the past five years, and was employed by Cumberland contracting as a laborer. He came here from West Virginia, where he formerly worked as a coal miner.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Annie Elrik and three sisters, Mrs. Emma Aggleson, Ridgely, W. Va., Mrs. Annie Knight, Thomas, W. Va., and Mrs. Linnie Tawes, York, Pa.

MRS. ROBERT WHETSTONE Mrs. Josephine Louise Whetstone, 36, wife of Robert Henry Whetstone, 154 North Centre street, died yesterday afternoon at 2:36 o'clock in Memorial hospital.

In failing health for some time, Mrs. Whetstone was rushed to the hospital at 6:30 a. m. suffering from paralysis of the diaphragm but died despite treatment with a respirator and an iron lung.

A native of Piedmont, W. Va., she was a daughter of Earl and Josephine Bailey Combs. Mrs. Whetstone was a member of the Presbyterian church.

Besides her husband, and her parents, she is survived by two children, Roger and Sally, both at home, and two sisters, Mrs. Imelda Riddle, Renton, Pa., and Mrs. June Riddle, Ernest, Pa.

The body is at the George funeral home.

SINGS IN DRAMA—George D. Truly, Frostburg, is singing this summer with the Westminster choir, which is providing the musical background for Paul Green's "The Lost Colony" at Roanoke Island, N. C. The choir sings old English anthems and carols, rearranged by Lamar Stringfield and Adeline McCall, of Chapel Hill, N. C. The play, performed five nights a week in a huge waterside theater, tells the story of Sir Walter Raleigh's attempt to colonize America.

Liquor License For New Lounge Is Protested

Several Technicalities Are Cited For Rejection Of Whetsell's Application

A petition, asking that Charles H. Whetsell's application for a transfer of a whiskey license be refused, was filed in circuit court Saturday, by attorneys for Frank Molinari, Jr., and Samuel P. DeLuca, who operate the Cadillac Cocktail Lounge, 26 Baltimore street.

Whetsell, who is associated with Herbert Cornish in plans to open a cocktail lounge known as "The Alibi," next door to the Cadillac, filed an application May 18 in circuit court asking that a Class B liquor license be transferred from Porter's restaurant, with which Whetsell was associated until recently, to the Alibi.

The advertisement appeared in local papers twice before any protest was filed, and Whetsell had planned to have the new lounge open for the coming race meet, to be held here in August.

Request Rejection William A. Gunter and D. Lindley Sloan, attorneys for the Cadillac owners, asked that the transfer application be rejected, charging that one of the men who signed Whetsell's application had already signed one during the current license year for the Alhambra Club of the Knights of Columbus, 13 North Mechanic street.

Edward Haebe, who operates a flower shop at 26 North Mechanic street, signs the two applications, the lawyers asserted, and this is a violation of the 1933 county liquor control act, which specifies that only one application may be signed by a person who lives or has property in the vicinity of the place to be licensed.

The attorneys also asserted that Paul Steinla, another of the signers, has a place of business at 218 South Mechanic street, "which is not in the vicinity of the place to be licensed."

Plan Two Entrances Attorneys for the Cadillac owners also charged that a permit for the alterations now being done by Whetsell and Cornish was granted by City Engineer Ralph L. Runk, and that the permit so posted on the building indicates that the improvements contemplated include an entrance to the place on North Mechanic street, in addition to the Baltimore street entrance, and "no license for which is included in the application" for the transfer of Whetsell's liquor permit.

Molinari and DeLuca assert they "are doing business" next door to the proposed new cocktail lounge, and "are entitled to call these errors to the attention of the Court."

Whetsell, who was represented by Harry I. Stegmeyer when he applied for transfer of his license, said he had hoped to open the new place in August, before the state convention of the American Legion opens here, and that "somebody" complained last week to the Civilian Production Administration that materials being used in remodeling were "acquired through regular channels."

"We are using steel beams, which are not new, and some glass brick, all of which was obtained in a regular and legal manner," Whetsell said. He added that he is a veteran of World War I, was wounded in France, and "as a veteran, I am entitled to obtain such materials."

The OPA office at Philadelphia was advised of this fact, Whetsell said, and the work is being continued.

He also asserted that attorneys for the Cadillac owners recently sent him a letter, in what he termed "an attempt to scare me," after work on "The Alibi" was started.

Girl Is Injured A 5-year-old Springfield, W. Va. girl who was admitted to Memorial hospital at 8:30 p. m. yesterday for treatment of injuries suffered when she was hit by a car in Springfield, was in a satisfactory condition late last night.

The girl, Shirley May Prazier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Prazier, was treated for a fractured right leg, abrasions on the back and legs and contusions of the right side of the face.

Attaches said the driver of the car, Herman G. Brant, 215 Arch street, reported the girl ran in front of the vehicle.

Rep. Beall Tells Why He Opposed Loan To Britain

Asserts Congress Lacks Authority To Tax American Citizens

Rep. G. Glenn Beall, of the Sixth Maryland district, who voted against the loan to Great Britain Saturday, in a statement issued over the weekend asserted he voted against the measure because "such power is not vested in Congress under the Constitution or by law."

Under terms of the bill, which the House passed 219 to 155, the United States will lend Great Britain $3,750,000,000. The measure previously had passed the Senate and following passage by the House was sent to President Truman for his signature.

Rep. Roe Also Opposed Also voting against the bill was Rep. Roe, of Maryland, and Rep. Bailey, of West Virginia, both Democrats. Rep. Ellis, Republican, of West Virginia, also opposed the bill, while the following Democrats voted for it:

Baldwin, Sasser, Fallon and D'Alessandro, of Maryland; Randolph, Neely, Kee and Hedrick, of West Virginia.

In his statement to the local press Rep. Beall declared: "When considering the proposed loan to Great Britain I want to remember that I am representing the people of my district and all of the United States. I must do as I would if I were a bank official and the custodian of a trust fund. The money we are asked to lend is not mine. It is the money to be taken from the American taxpayers."

"In order to make a loan to Britain we must collect taxes from all people subject to taxation. Our government will then take the taxpayers' money and make an extension of credit or a gift to Britain. What power or authority does Congress have to tax the people and raise money for the purpose of extending credit, giving or loaning money to a foreign country? Such power is not vested in Congress under the Constitution or by any law."

Pay No Interest "In the first place, the United States Government does not have $3,750,000,000. We can get it only by creating fiat money or by selling our bonds to our own people, and if we do we must pay interest on those bonds. Great Britain pays us no interest for years under the terms of this agreement and after 5 years she does not pay interest unless she feels like she is able to pay it. It is all optional with her. For the first time in the history of the world, the debtor is to sit in the driver's seat of the ship of state. Up until now I have always heard that 'beggars should not be choosers.'"

"England is putting up no security—not even turning over any land defense bases. England can post collateral and the loan should be made on a business basis. Between 2 and 4 billion in gilt edge securities she holds in this country, her railroad and other holdings in South America, her gold and diamond mines in South Africa and other investments all over the world. There is no reason why collateral should be demanded."

"In making the gift to England we will be obligated to open our American markets to low wage foreign products in competition with our own laborers, agriculture and industry."

I do not see how the proposed loan would help stop England's socialist trend. The chairman of the British Labor Party now in power, the Hon. Harold Laski was recently quoted in the New York Times. To those who say we have to choose, as I do not believe we have to choose, between 2 and 4 billion in gilt edge securities she holds in this country, her railroad and other holdings in South America, her gold and diamond mines in South Africa and other investments all over the world. There is no reason why collateral should be demanded."

"Unemployment Not Severe" "Unemployment is not severe in England—at the present time being down to less than 400,000 men and women whereas her prewar average unemployment ran close to 2,000,000. As late as April 4, 1946, the London Times reported that the increase in unemployment which occurred last fall was beginning to slacken. England would use the loan to extend social benefits and security to her own people with our money when we have not done a good job for our own veterans and old age pensioners."

"It has been claimed that the loan was necessary to reestablish England's export business. Statistics will show that during the first three months of 1946 exports exceeded the same period in 1938. The month of May 1946 exceeded the same month in 1938, which was her biggest year in exports."

"England is applying to us for a loan at the same time she is negotiating loans to other countries. Greece is getting $40,000,000 and Great Britain in return is receiving valuable commodities and political advantages. France recently borrowed $440,000,000 from Britain. If England herself is lending money why must she borrow from us?"

"It does not seem plausible that Great Britain would have to borrow $3,750,000,000 in addition to help given her in loan from Canada of $1,125,000,000 and the $450,000,000 she has borrowed from the R.F.C.—an American company financed by American taxpayers."

"England defaulted on previous loans from us in the amount of one billion six hundred million dollars. She has defaulted in ten less payments of some $25,000,000,000. There is no reason to believe that the proposed loan will be repaid."

Sees Ill Will Incurred "Such a gift to England would be the opening wedge into our pocketbooks for all nations wanting to ask for a gift from the United States. England will neither pay the principal nor the interest and refusal to lend other countries would incur ill will."

"How could I vote for the loan of $3,750,000,000 to Britain and face the citizens of this country, the farmer, the home owner, the veteran who when they borrow money from the government or with government aid must give a mortgage on their farms or homes in order to get the money?"

Local News In Brief

Several hundred persons attended the first of a series of summer band concerts last night at the Moose home, Beall street. The concert was given by the band of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, with T. S. Watson directing.

Robert Rodeheaver, 21, is being held in Garrett county jail on a charge of stealing a motorcycle in Steubenville, Ohio. Cpl. Thomas Curry of the Maryland State Police arrested the young man after a radio alarm was broadcast from the LaVale sub-station. Police said Rodeheaver will probably be returned to Steubenville.

Copies of the complete flood project for Cumberland and Ridgely have been received here by officials and interested individuals. The report mentions that 26 to 50 months will be required to finish the project and nine months will be needed to prepare contract plans and specifications. This latter task will require a staff of 48.

The first night flight from Cumberland Municipal Airport at Wiley Ford, W. Va. was made last Friday when John A. Chapman, airport manager, and Harry A. Ploek, Jr., an employee of the port, took off at about 9:30 p. m. After staying in the air about 45 minutes the plane landed on newly illuminated runways No. 3.

Frank J. Dobson, RFD 1, LaVale, was fined $100 and costs in trial magistrates court Saturday on a charge of drunken driving. He was arrested by city police at the intersection of Oldtown road and Virginia avenue, after he had bumped his car against the police cruiser several times. Dobson told the magistrate he had "only one bottle of beer," and entered a plea of not guilty.

Central Fire Company No. 1 was called to Dexter place last night at 9:32 p. m. after a box of rubbish piled up in front of Montgomery Ward warehouse caught fire. Officer Louis D. Downey, who sent in the alarm, said the flames were shooting into the air for some distance when two boys noticed the blaze and notified him.

Carroll B. Block, recently discharged veteran, has been appointed manager of the Wolf Furniture Store in Lock Haven, Pa. Before entering service, three years ago, Pollock was employed in the Cumberland store of the Wolf company.

Sister Mary Elena, former resident of Cumberland, took her final vows July 4 at the Ursuline convent, Louisville, Ky. Attending the ceremony from here were John Becker, 514 Dailley street, and Bessie Baer, Elm street.

Edward R. Clark, Jr., 714 Sylvan avenue, recently was graduated from the Ray School of Advertising, Chicago, where he completed a year's course in advertising. He also completed a course in public speaking at the Dale Carnegie Institute. Clark, who was graduated with honors, will return to this city July 28, where he and his wife will spend a two-weeks vacation.

George H. McCracken, degree captain, announced that a degree will be conferred this evening at the meeting of Chapel Hill Lodge No. 33, I.O.O.F., in the temple, Virginia avenue. The work will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Officer C. W. Thompson, city policeman, who has been a medical patient in Allegheny hospital for several days, expects to return to his home, 147 Bedford street today.

Trooper Glen D. Polk, LaVale barracks, Maryland Police, who underwent an appendectomy in Allegheny hospital recently, is recuperating satisfactorily. He will be discharged from the hospital early this week.

East Side Fire Company was called to Sunbury avenue yesterday at 11 a. m. to put out a grass fire in a vacant lot.

All three occupants of a car which went into a spin after it failed to negotiate a curve, turned end over end and then skidded on its top against a bank some 70 feet from the intersection of the street and the Winchester road one half mile west of Cresaptown, Saturday night at 10:10 o'clock escaped "without a scratch," state police reported.

Trooper G. M. Rotruck, who investigated, identified the driver as Gene G. Keister, Cresaptown, and stated that Keister will be given a hearing tonight at 7 o'clock before Magistrate Roy S. Bowman on a charge of reckless driving.

The trooper said Keister was traveling toward the Six Mile house when the accident occurred and said witnesses reported the vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed. Bradford Whitcomb, Shawe avenue, this city, and Earl W. Getson, Corriganville, were occupants of the car, he added.

Three other persons escaped injury Saturday at 4 a. m. when the car in which they were riding failed to make a curve on Route 50, near Burlington, W. Va., and upset.

Mrs. Arlee W. Todd and Capt. Daniel Passo, who were en route from Port Bragg, N. C., to Washington, Pa., when the crash occurred. The car was badly damaged.

"The driver of a local taxicab escaped injury Friday night at 7:50 o'clock when the kingpin of the right front wheel of the vehicle snapped off and allowed the chassis of the car to drop to the street at the intersection of Frederick and North Liberty streets.

Harold Bonner, driver of the taxicab owned and operated by his father, had stopped at the stop sign at the Liberty street intersection and had reduced a speed of less than five miles an hour when the mishap occurred.

The driver commented that a serious accident would have resulted had the taxi been traveling at a high rate of speed. There were no passengers in the vehicle.

County Liquor Law Faces Test In Court Friday

Much Interest Is Shown In Mandamus Case Over 1933 Act

The first test case involving the legality of Allegheny county's liquor law, is scheduled for a hearing in circuit court, Friday before Associate Judge Joseph D. Miah, of Hagerstown.

The Hagerstown judge will conduct the case here, as Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, have disqualified themselves, since they have issued licenses under the liquor control act in question, which was passed in 1933, at a special session of the Maryland General Assembly.

Resulting from a mandamus proceeding filed April 13 by Eldred A. Cromwell, operator of Kida Inn, Braddock road, in an effort to obtain a liquor license, the case has attracted much attention among attorneys, legislators and liquor dealers.

Clara, of the Court Robert Jackson, named defendant in the action by Cromwell, because he refused to issue the latter a license under the old "saloon law" of 1894, is represented by D. Lindsey Sloan, former chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals; William C. Wash, former attorney general and Maryland and State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris.

Representing Cromwell will be P. Neale Parke, of Westminster, former judge of the Court of Appeals, and Edward J. Ryan, of this city. Parke filed the petition for a writ of mandamus, and Ryan recently entered his appearance as co-counsel for the tavern owner.
